New Contract for Street Lighting Adopted by Board

Public Works Board Directs Mayor Dempsey to Sign "Inducement Rate" Contract With Central Hudson—Other Matters Before Board.

The board of public works at its regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening at the city hall directed Mayor Dempsey as president of the board to sign the new street lighting contract offered the city by the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Company. The new contract will be effective as of October 1, and will be in force for a period of one year. The new contract is what is known as the "inducement rate" and how it worked out was thoroughly explained to the board by John R. Meehan, district manager of the electric company, who appeared before the board with E. M. Huben of the street lighting department of the electric company.

Mr. Meehan explained that the company was offering the new rate to the city with the hope that the city would be induced to install more street lights. He said that it was a problem to properly light the streets of Kingston for it should be taken into consideration that this city had almost as many miles of streets as Poughkeepsie and Newburgh combined. Poughkeepsie he said was one of the best lighted cities in the Hudson valley.

In reply to questions by the board Mr. Meehan said that he believed it cost Poughkeepsie about $80,000 a year to light its streets. Kingston pays slightly over $50,000 a year.

The new "inducement rate" offered the city by the electric company would make it possible for the city to install more lights. Mr. Meehan called attention to the fact that earlier in the year the electric company had voluntarily given the city a reduction of $7,000 in its yearly street lighting bill and that the board was now in a position to install more lights with the amount saved in the lighting bill. The new rate applies largely to installation of new street lights or the replacing of present lamps with larger lamps.

Hudson Street Sewer.

A petition signed by twenty-two taxpayers and resident of Hudson street requesting that a sanitary sewer be constructed in that street was read and referred to the street committee and city engineer to submit a report later.

Fischer Protested.

John A. Fischer, whose ice house is located on Abeel street, at the foot of Hudson street, sent in a letter of protest against the building of a sewer in Hudson street on the grounds that it "would ruin the water from which I harvest ice."

The communication was filed.

Church Files Claim.

Alderman Relyea, of the Eleventh ward, sent in a communication together with a bill for plumbing from C. Lester Legg, amounting to $19.06 for work done at the Christian Science Church. Recently the sewerage had backed up into the cellar of the church and Mr. Legg had been engaged to dig up the sewer connections and found that the trouble was in the main sewer and not in the church sewer connection, and for that reason officials of the church believed that the plumbing bill should be paid by the city. As the matter is a claim against the city it was referred to the common council.

Adopt Ordinance.

An ordinance for the construction of a storm water sewer in North Manor avenue, between Kiersted avenue and the existing sewer on North Manor avenue, was read and adopted.

More Lights Ordered.

The lighting committee reported in favor of installing another light on Clifton avenue and two on North Fairview avenue. The report was adopted and the electric company will be directed to install the lights.

Want Air Mail Here.

Commissioner E. E. Fessenden, chairman of the airport committee of the board, called attention to the fact that Kingston now had an airport adequate for the landing of all commercial airplanes and that the post office department be asked by the common council to authorize the delivery of air mail in Kingston. It is likely that the common council will take the matter up at its next meeting.

New Traffic Signals.

At the close of the meeting the board witnessed a demonstration of a new traffic signal. The signal demonstrated is set up in the center of the street at the intersection of streets desired and works automatically. Cars approaching the traffic signal from any direction run over a rubber obstruction in the road located over a hundred feet back from the street intersection and as the cars pass over this obstruction it automatically works the traffic signal so as to flash red, stopping traffic in the opposite direction. The demonstration proved very interesting.

St. Mary's Card Party.

Arrangements for the card party to be held in St. Mary's Hall Tuesday night, October 1, are rapidly nearing completion, according to reports made to general chairmen, David L. Loug and Augustus Kogie, at a meeting Tuesday night. Bridge and pinochle will be played. A good time is promised all who attend. Mrs. John Herrick will have charge of refreshments.

Floods Threaten Southern Arizona

Phoenix, Ariz., Sept. 25 (AP).—The lowlands of southern Arizona were inundated again today, the second time this week. They had not yet recovered from cloudburst and flood visitations of Monday night when more flood waters poured down upon them yesterday.

Rivers which ordinarily at this time of the year are small streams were tearing at their banks. Several bridges had been torn from their piers and others were being weakened. Rail, air and highway traffic were disrupted as the result of continuing cloudbursts.

In many places the lowlands resembled lakes. Douglas, near the Mexican border, was surrounded by great sheets of water, bridges over the Rillito river and Pantano Wash were weakened and highways leading out of the city were impassable. Many motorists were reported marooned.

The Santa Cruz river at Tucson was nearly out of its banks and threatening to course through the city's streets.

Trains were running late, and railway officials were discussing advisability of temporary cancellation of schedules.

The Gila river at Ray Junction had risen more than 24 feet and the crest apparently had not been reached. The San Pedro river was about to top its banks. A bridge at Continental was out, and all traffic over the Tucson Casa Grande Highway was at a standstill.

Hurricane Nears Florida Coast

West Palm Beach, Fla., Sept. 25 (AP).—Faced with the possibility that the tropical disturbance which has been centered several days near the Bahamas may approach the shores of Florida's east coast today, the state made ready to receive the unwelcome visitor.

Basing their plans upon the weather forecasts from Washington, which said the disturbance was moving west northwestward at about ten miles an hour from a point about latitude 26½ degrees north longitude 76 degrees west, all efforts were being concentrated along the east coast to prevent a recurrence of the damage suffered in the storm of last year.

The Weather Bureau's storm warning said the center of the disturbance likely would approach close to the east coast of Florida between West Palm Beach and Daytona Beach late this afternoon. Indications, the warning said, were that the storm would assume hurricane proportions.

Little sign of an approaching storm was seen along the coast. Only slight changes from normal were recorded on barometers at Miami, West Palm Beach, Titusville, St. Augustine and Jacksonville.

Meanwhile relief agencies were mobilizing in the event the disturbance develops into serious proportions.

Four Cases in Police Court

This morning shortly before 4 o'clock while Officer Keresman was patroling his beat downtown his attention was attracted by loud voices emanating from the doorway at 17 West Strand. Investigating he found two negresses, Mary Level and Viola Mills, who gave their address as 49 Meadow street, indulging in fighting and using profane language. Both women were placed under arrest on a charge of disorderly conduct and lodged in the county jail until police court opened later in the morning, when they both pleaded guilty to the charge and were sentenced to twenty days each in jail by Judge Shufeldt.

George Heldron of First avenue, arrested for public intoxication Tuesday afternoon on the Strand, was sentenced to ten days in jail but serving of the sentence was suspended pending good behavior.

William Jones of South Wall street, arrested Sunday for public intoxication on Meadow street, was also given a suspended sentence.

Lindberghs in British Guiana

Miami, Fla., Sept. 25 (AP).—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's plane was reeling in its radio antenna at 8 a. m., preparatory to landing at Georgetown, British Guiana, a radio message relayed to the Miami base at 9:03 said. The actual landing probably will be reported by cable, Pan-American officials said.

Miami, Fla., Sept. 25 (AP).—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh today faced a long hop from Paramaribo, Dutch Guiana, to Port of Spain, Trinidad, by way of Georgetown, British Guiana, in continuation of their trail-blazing Pan-American air-mail flight.

They had set the time of their takeoff on the homeward swing of their 7,600-mile journey at 7 a. m. at Port of Spain. The mail will be transferred to a regular mail plane.

Tomorrow the Lindberghs leave Port of Spain for a flight along the northern coast of South America, where the flying colonel will inspect the air line through Venezuela.

Brookhart Says The Flasks Were Under the Table

Washington, Sept. 25 (AP).—Senator Howell, Nebraska, Republican, holds that it was "unfair" of President Hoover to call on him to furnish the department of justice "definite facts with time and place" to back up his statements in the Senate last week that the dry law is being violated in Washington.

His assertion that the prohibition law could be enforced if the Chief Executive insisted on it brought a prompt statement from the White House expressing the President's assumption that he "would not make these charges unless they were based upon definite facts" and his desire to have the capital made "a model in the country" for enforcement.

Asserting he was not able to give such facts and that he felt they should not be demanded of a Senator, the Nebraskan, who supported President Hoover's prohibition views during the pre-election campaign, took his first opportunity to reply in the Senate.

"I spoke from what is common knowledge," he said, "and what is believed outside of Washington to be the conditions inside Washington, the depository of our constitution and the seat of our government.

"I believe conditions here are vastly better than in other cities, but that the fact remains that bootlegging thrives in Washington."

He suggested that Major General Smedley Butler, commander of the Marine Post at Quantico, Virginia, now engaged in drying up the village which it surrounds, be brought to Washington for that purpose on the strength of his record as head of the police clean-up campaign in Philadelphia several years ago.

He read from reports of prohibition agents which disclosed, he said, that prohibition was disregarded in some of the leading hotels in Washington.

"If you close one of those great hostelries," he predicted, "you will see real enforcement."

That and a remark by Senator Smoot, Utah, Republican, reminded Senator Brookhart, Iowa, Republican, of an incident in which "a prominent Wall street gentleman" served liquor at a dinner he gave for Senators in the Willard Hotel.

Smoot, protesting against Howell's interruption of the tariff debate, had expressed the opinion that there was little bootlegging in Washington.

"I ask if the Senator has ever seen any signs of bootleggers around the dinners given by a prominent Wall street gentleman for the purpose of greeting newly-elected Senators," Brookhart inquired.

"I will say to the Senator I have not, but I ask the Senator if he has?" Smoot retorted.

"Yes, I have, and the Senator did too, on the same night," the Iowan replied.

Brookhart mentioned a Willard Hotel dinner, insisting Smoot was present, although the latter did not recall it.

"The flasks, as I remember," Brookhart related, "were under the table with a curtain around it and all one had to do was to reach down and get his flask and put it in his hip pocket."

INDICT GUTZON BORGLUM FOR MALICIOUS MISCHIEF.

Decatur, Ga., Sept. 25 (AP).—Indictment of Gutzon Borglum, former sculptor for the Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial Association, on charges of malicious mischief and larceny, was the latest of a long series of difficulties which have kept step with efforts to carve a momument to heroes of the Confederacy on the side of the granite mountain here.

Word of the indictment by the DeKalb county grand jury September 9, was made public late yesterday. Borglum was charged with malicious mischief for the destruction of his original models for the equestrian figures of the memorial.

The indictments, which are similar to charges brought against the sculptor in 1925, and nolle prossed in June of this year, set forth that the models destroyed by Borglum and Tucker were valued at $700.

G. F. Willis, president of the association, professed surprise at the indictments, while S. H. Venable, owner of the mountain, denounced the charges as "persecution of Borglum."

Borglum gave way to Augustus Lukeman as sculptor when differences between him and the association failed of an amicable settlement.

Rasputin's Daughter Will Dance.

Budapest, Sept. 25 (AP).—Rasputin's daughter will dance in Hungary after all. Marie Gregorievna whose father was the notorious Monk of the Czar's court, was refused permission ten days ago to appear in a local theatre, but upon appeal to the ministry of the interior the ban was lifted.

Home for Aged Meeting.

All members of the board of managers of the Home for the Aged are requested to make a special effort to be at the meeting at the Home Thursday afternoon at 3. Architect Lowe will be at the meeting and will submit plans for the new building.

Fire Sale.

The Worthwell store on lower Broadway will hold a fire sale on Saturday. It is the intention of the proprietor to continue the store after disposing of the fire sale stock, the coming year.

Lisman Attacks Valuation of The Ulster & Delaware

F. J. Lisman, chairman of the protective committee of the Ulster & Delaware Railroad first mortgage bonds, Tuesday stated that "the recent advance in the price of the first mortgage bonds of the Ulster & Delaware Railroad can certainly not be interpreted as a gift to the bondholders, as it is being interpreted in some quarters, says the New York Herald Tribune.

"These Ulster & Delaware bonds sold at par and at a premium up to a very few years ago and they advanced to about 90 early in the year when the Interstate Commerce Commission decision in the New York case was announced," he said.

"The Interstate Commerce Commission in the New York Central merger case stated that the owners of short lines are entitled to their fair commercial value, which is, of course, different from physical value. The Ulster & Delaware was appraised by the Interstate Commerce Commission as having a fair physical value, less depreciation, of about $6,700,000. Based on the Supreme Court's O'Fallon decision, possibly $1,000,000 may be added to this value. Therefore the price the arbiters have agreed is less than 60 per cent of the physical."

The value of the railroad was fixed as $4,100,000, the amount being agreed on by a majority of three arbitrators.

League Adjourns Its Tenth Session

Hailed As Most Constructive and Progressive During the Ten Years of the League's Life.

Geneva, Sept. 25 (AP).—The assembly of the League of Nations today adjourned its tenth annual session. Delegates from more than 50 nations hailed the meeting as the most constructive and progressive during the ten years of the League's life.

The assembly unanimously agreed that the spirit of conciliation and mutual concession which reigned during this session marked a long stride forward in the movement for international peace and security.

The Budget Committee recommended a budget of $5,600,000 for 1930. This represents an increase of $510,000 over estimates by the Secretary General, and an increase of $50,000 over the current year's expenditures.

The assembly witnessed a concerted move to outlaw war and to adopt compulsory arbitration as means of settling international disputes. During the session three great powers and eleven other states signed articles recognizing the compulsory jurisdiction of the world court of justice at The Hague.

The prevailing wish for participation of the United States in the League's activities was expressed by Preident Guerrero when he said: "In our common conviction I find grounds for hoping that those sister nations who are as yet divided from us will come to join us."

Steps for organization of the nations for concerted action for solving the world's economic problems were also initiated this session, immediate attention being given to the proposal for reaching international agreement to prevent further raising of tariffs for a period of two years.

The assembly made definite steps towards forming a connection between the League work and the United States when it unanimously adopted the protocol for the adhesion of that country to the statute of the permanent court of international justice, forty-nine countries had signed this agreement before the end of the session today.

FIND BODY OF WILLIAM REED, LOST ON SEPTEMBER 10

Bar Harbor, Maine, Sept. 25 (AP).—The body of William Reed, 19, son of Professor and Mrs. Elmer Bliss Reed, of New Haven, Conn., who had been missing since September 10, was found in the waters of Frenchman's Bay near Egg Rock Light today by a lobster fisherman.

Young Reed was last seen when he sailed from Little Gotts Island in his small sloop for the family home at Hancock Point. His 19-foot craft capsized.

A search of more than a week had been conducted for Reed by 150 lobster boats, two private yachts and two seaplanes.

Professor Reed, a teacher at Yale, who personally directed the search, had offered a reward of $1,000 for the finding of the youth, dead or alive.

Father Larkin Celebrates 25th Year as Priest

Celebrates His 25th Anniversary of Ordination in Priesthood—Fifty Priests at Services—Four Hundred at Reception.

St. Gabriel's Church, New Rochelle, was filled Sunday for the solemn Mass of Thanksgiving held in celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Rev. Michael J. Larkin's ordination into the priesthood. It was followed in the afternoon by a reception in his honor attended by members of the parish and many friends from outside. Father Larkin is the son of Mrs. Mary E. Larkin of this city.

There were palms and bouquets of flowers which, with the vestments of the priests, presented a colorful picture for the impressive service at the church at 11:30 in the morning.

More than 50 priests from out of town were present for the silver jubilee and assisting in the service were three of the Rev. Father Larkin's classmates, the Rev. Thomas P. Larkin, pastor of St. Aloysius Church in New York; the Rev. James Kilroe, pastor of St. Mary's Church, City Island, and the Rev. John J. McCahill, pastor of the Church of Our Lady of the Assumption, Pelham Bay Park. The same three assisted him on the day he celebrated his first Mass in St. Mary's Church, this city, 25 years ago.

The preacher Sunday was the Rev. James M. Gillis, C. S. P., who said for fear of causing discomfort to a friend and violating the privilege of intimate friendship by dwelling on characteristics he had come to know because of association with Father Larkin, he would speak on the priesthood rather than a priest, and took as his subject, "The Priesthood in Modern America."

Following the Mass a dinner was served in the parish house to Father Larkin, his mother, and other members of his family, and at the church school, dinner was served to the visiting priests.

The reception which was held in St. Gabriel's School Hall, was attended by more than 400 guests. The Rev. J. J. Webber of St. Gabriel's Church, presented Father Larkin with a spiritual bouquet and a musical program was given by the orchestra of St. Gabriel's School, with Isadore Overberger as soloist. The Rev. John J. Hickey of St. Joseph's Church in New York, formerly pastor of St. Mary's in this city, was the speaker.

The reception opened with the singing of the Ecce Sacredos followed by the "Star Spangled Banner" played by St. Gabriel's school orchestra. "Ave Maria" was sung by Isadore Overberger. The "Poets and Peasant" overture was rendered by the school orchestra, whose members are James Glasheen, leader, Richard Emmerson, Alvin Morgan, Charles Ryan, Dorothy McGuire, Emma Muth, William Glasheen, William Williams and Louis Chadek. At the conclusion of the speeches the entire audience joined in singing "Te Deum".

Following is a list of the Monsignori, priests and relatives who were present at the Mass:

Among the other clergy were: The Very Rev. John F. Fenlon S. S., Reverends Anthony J. Rothlauf, E. J. Rossi, Charles F. Reid, R. B. Cushion, P. A. O'Marra, James E. Kearney, Joseph E. Brady, John J. Hickey, Francis A. Kinlry, Edwin M. Sinnott, F. J. Baum, J. N. Moody, B. F. McQuade, Francis Prunty, Joseph L. McCann, Ernest A. Badecker, John Fearns, F. C. Campbell, John E. Wickham, H. L. Riley C. S. P., Louis Riccio, Edwin Loehr, James A. Brady, James J. Halligan, Conrad J. McCoy, William B. Martin, P. J. Temple, John J. Hopkins, Joseph Cassella and Father Bernard O. S. B.

The relatives of Father Larkin present at the Mass were: His beloved mother, Mrs. Mary Larkin; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Cook, Dr., and Mrs. John F. Larkin, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar T. Shultis, Mrs. Richard McCutcheon and Mrs. McGowan.

PERSONAL AIR PILOT TO PRINCE OF WALES

London, Sept. 25 (AP).—Personal air pilot to H. R. H. the Prince of Wales is the new post created in Great Britain's royal establishment today by the appointment of E. H. Fielden of the air force officers' reserve corps to fly the plane that belongs to the heir to the throne.

Fielden, who is 26 and has a reputation as a brilliant pilot, will fly the Prince in a new two-seater light airplane which the Prince bought recently.

The plane is fitted with dual controls.

Condition of Huggins Unchanged.

New York, Sept. 25 (AP).—The condition of Miller Huggins, manager of the New York Yankees, was reported as unchanged this morning at St. Vincent's Hospital, where he is seriously ill of an infection. He slept six hours during the night. His pulse at 6 a. m. was 140, respiration 38, and temperature 104.8.

The test was made [illegible] the auspices of Daniel [illegible] president of the [illegible] Guggenheim foundation for the promotion of aeronautics.

The new instruments upon which Lieutenant Doolittle relied in his canvas covered cockpit were an artificial horizon, a visual radio receiver and a delicate barometric altimeter.

The artificial horizon is an instrument which shows the plane's lateral and longitudinal angle to the ground when the real horizon is hidden.

The visual radio receiver consists of two vibrating reeds which indicate when the plane is headed directly for its objective and when it is over it. Deviation right or left causes one of the reeds to vibrate more rapidly than the other.

The altimeter is so sensative it measures the altitude of a plane within a few feet of the ground, making possible safe landings on an obscured field.

Mr. Guggenheim said the instruments would soon be made available for general use and were neither complicated nor of prohibitive cost.

Russian Plane At Dutch Harbor

Seattle, Sept. 25 (AP).—The Russian monoplane Land of the Soviets, flying from Moscow to New York, was at Dutch Harbor, Unalaska, today after a trip of 752 miles from Attu, western-most island of the Aleutians chain.

Arrival of the plane at Dutch Harbor at 2 p. m. (5 p. m. Pacific standard time), was reported in messages received in Seattle. Its takeoff yesterday in the face of what was regarded as unfavorable weather was a surprise here.

The Behring Sea coast guard fleet, in command of Captain C. S. Cochrane, was at Dutch Harbor to render the Russians any assistance necessary and to serve as a base of operations for the fliers until they take off for Seward, 700 miles away, their next scheduled stop.

Few details were available of the flight yesterday except that the landing was made on the rough waters of the bay in a brisk wind.

From Seward the Russians will fly to Sitka, and thence to Seattle. There the pontoons with which the plane is equipped will be replaced with landing gear for the flight to San Francisco and then to New York via Chicago.

Bomb Theatre Stage Entrance

Chicago, Sept. 25 (AP).—The Academy Theatre, a burlesque house, was bombed last night after the evening performance while a chorus rehearsal was in progress on the stage.

Choristers and actors, still in costume, ran to the street when the bomb tore away masonry at the stage entrance.

Leo Stevens, manager of the theatre, said the bombing was the "direct action" which had been threatened by unknown persons ever since the theatre began producing burlesque last April. He said he had received letters and phone calls warning that he would be "taken for a ride." He attributed the bombing to the theatre's policy of charging less for seats than some other houses in the neighborhood.

Another bombing occurred early today, shattering windows and damaging a three-story apartment building on the north side. No one was hurt, although families living in the 18 apartments fled in alarm to the street.

Serious Accident At Wawarsing

Two victims of a very serious automobile accident near the Chester Brown oil filling station at Wawarsing are now in the Veterans' Memorial Hospital at Ellenville. They are Samuel Beyer and Miss Helen Lane, both of Ellenville. Beyer had his leg broken in several places. Miss Lane was bruised and very severely burned from acid.

The accident occurred late Saturday night as the couple were returning from a drive to Kingston. As reported, the accelerator stuck as the touring car was approaching the oil station and Beyer stooped down to pull it up if possible. As he did so the car swerved, struck an apple tree with terrific force, was overturned and wrecked.

Miss Lane was pinned underneath the car and directly beneath the battery box, the freed sulphuric acid coming in contact with her body and burning her very severely from the head down. Beyer was thrown out as the car struck.

Massacre of 3,000 Moslems

Hankow, China, Sept. 25 (AP).—Additional details of the alleged Chinese massacre of 3,000 Moslems in a remote part of Kansu Province indicate the affair took place at Taochow, an old city in southwest Kansu, on the Lau river.

According to information considered authentic, following the period of Sino-Moslem conflict in South Kansu, which is a part of a general Mohammedan rebellion in Kansu which has been going on during the last two years in the southwest of the province, Chinese authorities, under the order of provincial authorities at Lanchow, asked Moslems to convene at Taochow for a conference and to receive roasted barley.

Following the Moslems' arrival all of the males between the ages of 15 and 50 were separated from the women and children, taken outside the city walls and "butchered like sheep."

No word reached the women until the following day when pitiful scenes were enacted while women sought to identify their dead. Their mournful cries echoed through the city.

The Moslems were concentrated in Taochow as a result of intense famine in southwest Kansu, which culminated in thousands of Mohammedans being reduced to starvation, their suffering intensified by being forced to live unsheltered as a result of their warfare with the Chinese.

Because of these conditions it was considered that the Moslems were willing to meet the Chinese at Taochow in the hopes of securing food. Reports indicate that when the Moslems became aware the Chinese authorities intended to kill them they requested no mercy.

Hochow, a hundred miles northwest of Taochow, is reported besieged and Chinese of the Taochow neighborhood are reported panic-stricken owing to the reported massacre, fearing Hochow Moslems will ravage the Taochow countryside and wreak vengeance.

The locality concerned is one of the most isolated in all Asia, rendering acquisition or information most difficult.

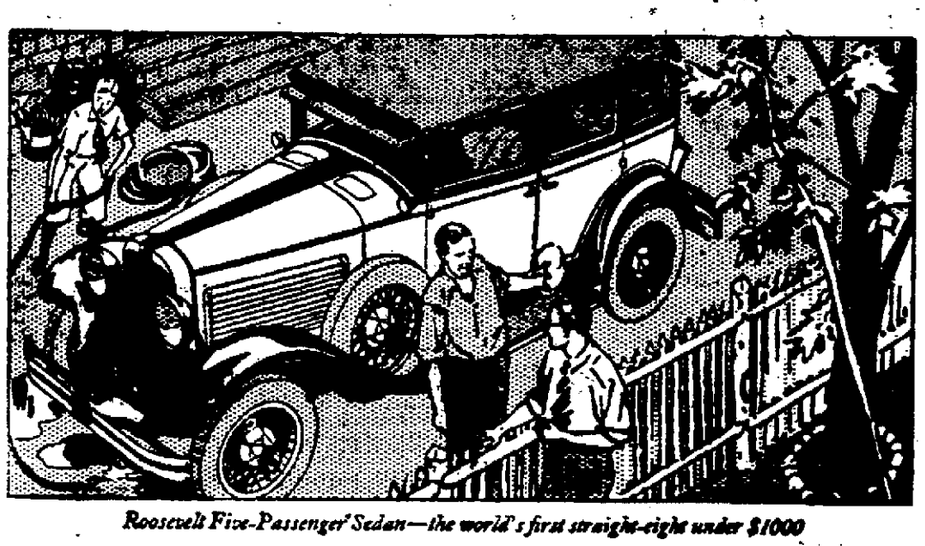
A CAR FOR ALL — MARMON-BUILT

Still on the Crest



Roosevelt Five-Passenger Sedan—the world's first straight-eight under $1000

NEWS of the new models is here. Many new values are claimed. The Roosevelt, with a great six months behind it, is still on the crest, without a rival in sight.

It, alone, of all automobiles, in the $1000 field, is a straight-eight.

It, alone, offers eight-cylinder smoothness and performance at the regular six-cylinder price.

Powerful adjectives don't make a car perform better, but real advanced eight-cylinder engineering does. Until someone betters the Roosevelt it will remain the newest and most advanced automobile at anywhere near the $1000 price.

A Marmon-built Straight-Eight for Every Purse—Roosevelt, $995; Marmon 68, $1465; Marmon 78, $1965. Prices at factory. Group equipment extra. Convenient income-purchase plan.

Turn the light on the Truth!

It's just naturally good tobacco—not "artificial treatment" that makes OLD GOLD gentle to the throat and better to the taste

No one cigarette-maker has any monopoly on the heat-treatment of cigarette tobaccos.

For heat-treating is neither new nor exclusive. It has been used for years by practically all cigarette-makers to "set" and sterilize their tobacco.

But OLD GOLD'S goodness does not depend on artificial treatment. It is the product of naturally good tobaccos . . . carefully selected for mildness, smoothness and flavor. Tobaccos made free of "throat scratch" by Mother Nature herself.

Try a package. You'll immediately get the thrill of this smoother and better cigarette. And you'll know then why OLD GOLD'S sales are ALREADY THREE TIMES GREATER than the combined growth of three leading cigarette brands during a like period of their existence.

Hoover's Stand on Tariff Attacked

Washington, Sept. 25 (AP).—President Hoover's statement advocating retention in the tariff bill of the debenture provisions was attacked in the senate today by Senator LaFollette, Wisconsin, Republican, who with other Republican independents is expected to join with many Democrats in opposition to the principle.

Contending it was difficult to reconcile why the President had not "broken his silence" on the tariff before in view of his action in "throwing the great weight of his office against the debenture plan" during the debate on farm bill, LaFollette said Mr. Hoover had not spoken to indicate whether he approved the pending bill.

"He has not indicated whether the bill complies with his ambiguous statement in his message to the special session" the Wisconsin Senator observed.

LaFollette said it was not difficult to understand why the executive desires to keep the "enormous power conferred upon him by the act of 1922." He added the people had seen the "continual absorption of power by the President until today the framers of the Constitution would not recognize that great document."

The flexible clause, LaFollette said, constituted the "power of life or death over the institutions of business and agriculture in this country."

Fighting The Japanese Beetle

Camden, N. J., Sept. 25 (AP).—C. H. Hadley, in charge of federal efforts to prevent the spread of Japanese beetles, announced today that beginning today the restrictions on the movement of farm products in the area affected by the pest are lifted until June 15, 1930.

Lifting of the quarantine on the farm products does not affect the quarantine on cut flowers, which will remain in effect until October 15. The quarantine on movement of all nursery, ornamental and greenhouse stock, sand, soil, earth, peat, composite and manure remains effective throughout the year, certificates being required for shipment of these.

The area affected in the quarantine orders includes all of New Jersey, eastern Pennsylvania as far west as the Susquehanna river, northern Delaware, Cecil county in Maryland, the southern part of New York, and New Haven and Fairfield counties in Connecticut.

200 Boys in School Patrol

The School Boy Patrol which was organized some time ago under the auspices of the Ulster County Automobile Club, has been reorganized since the opening of school after the summer vacation, and now numbers about two hundred boys who are active at ten of the city schools.

All of the boys are equipped with white belts, and act as traffic officers during the hours when the school is in session, taking charge of the direction of traffic as the scholars leave the school during the noon hour and at the close of school in the afternoon. The idea of the patrol is to prevent children being injured by traffic.

The members of the School Boy Patrol take their duties seriously and their work has assisted materially in cutting down the number of accidents to pupils at the school when crossing the street when school is out.

Y's Men Hear About Hunting

The Kingston Y's Men's Club enjoyed a great meeting Tuesday evening at the "Y". The attendance was very good after the summer vacation period.

President Morton McLoughlin presided in his usual peppy manner and kept the meeting running along very smoothly. The dinner as prepared by the Misses Davenport was up to their usual high standard, which no doubt was why the Y's Men joined so heartily in their singing. The song leader was Orson Beatty and although new in that line of endeavor certainly got every fellow singing heartily. Dan Bittner presided at the piano.

The club went on record as heartily endorsing the Kiwanis Kapers and from indications the club will be well represented in the audience to enjoy this annual affair of the Kiwanis Club, as almost every member indicated that he had already purchased and exchanged his tickets.

The entertainment committee for the evening had a great treat for the members and when President McLoughlin turned the meeting over to Arthur Quimby, James Scott and Clarence Wolfersteig it was soon evident that something out of the ordinary was in store. Arthur Quimby acting as chairman said he had able assistants on his committee and would ask James Scott to introduce the speaker.

Jim introduced Arthur W. Frohlich, a personal friend of his, whom Jim gives the credit of teaching him what he knows in fishing and hunting.

The fellows remembered the fine talk Mr. Frohlich gave them some time ago on fishing and greeted him with hearty applause. Mr. Frohlich said that he would give them a talk on hunting which was quite appropriate as the hunting season is just opening. What he didn't tell the fellows about hunting was not worth telling. His talk will be long remembered as the keen interest displayed showed how vitally interesting this subject was to the men. As a most fitting climax to his address he brought out of his suitcase all the paraphernalia for loading shells including the powder, bullets, etc., and gave an actual demonstration of how a shell is loaded.

Mr. Frohlich was given a rising vote of thanks with a hearty invitation to come again.

The entertainment committee for next week will be G. Warren Klas, Clarence Dumm, J. C. Fraser and Watson Bailey.

Will Close Up The Cat's Meow

The Cat's Meow, a road house which figured in two raids by prohibition agents, is closing if outside evidence is to be trusted. After twice being raided within a month, the road house, which caused considerable commotion in both Orange and Ulster county, is being boarded up. The windows and doors of the place have been boarded up and everything apparently is closed for the winter.

Located in Ulster county, a few feet from the Orange county line at Plattekill, the Cat's Meow attracted the attention of the Orange county officials. It was claimed the place was in Orange county, but a measurement made by the Orange county officials showed the premises to be located in Ulster county. Shortly after that Federal men raided the place and seized a quantity of liquor, but next day the place was open as usual for business. Its patrons were numerous and the place did a good business. Determined to locate the source of supply the agents paid a second visit to the place a month later and again purchased alleged alcoholic drinks. After arresting the men in the place the agents searched for the source of supply of liquor, as very little was found behind the bar. In an old parked automoile outside the premises the agents found the supply.

Raid Still Near Washingtonville

Federal agents from the Kingston office staged a raid on an open air still near Washingtonville, Orange county, Tuesday. The still was located in a deep woods and it required some time for the agents to locate it. After a two mile search through a heavily wooded section the agents came upon a clearing where they discovered a still in the open. As they approached they saw a man sitting in front of the still, apparently watching the machine.

The guardian of the still was arrested and gave his name as Frank Matyk, owner of a large farm. He was arrested on a charge of manufacturing apple-jack. It is the second time that he has been visited by Federal agents. He was to be arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Connelly later today.

Several gallons of finished product were confiscated by the agents as evidence.

Visiting Haverstraw later the agents executed search warrants on two places in the town. At 183 Broadway, Michael Hughes was arrested charged with possession of intoxicants and he was arraigned before Commissioner Connelly and held in $500 bail. At 19 Broadway, the agents entered and found John Feeney and Edward Willett, both of whom were arrested. In the barroom and in the cellar the agents found a quantity of liquor. Arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Connelly, they were held in $500 bail on a charge of possession.

PORT EWEN

Charles Pelizzi, local shoemaker, is leaving Port Ewen Friday and there are several pairs of shoes that have not been called for, and he would like the people to call and get them. All are very sorry to have him leave as he was a great convenience to the community.

SAYS NEW BRITISH AIRSHIPS ARE NOT "OBSELETE"

London, Sept. 25 (AP).—Statements in a London newspaper that the giant British airships R-100 and R-101 now nearing completion would prove obsolete before they even left the sheds brought a denial today from Commander Sir Charles Burney, head of the Airship Guarantee Company, which is building the R-100.

Sir Charles confidently expects the R-100 to have a speed of at least 80 miles an hour and to lift 62 to 63 tons, whereas the contract only calls for 70 miles an hour and a lift of 60 tons.

Commander Burney said the R-100 was designed for Egyptian routes, not for the Atlantic route to Canada. The airship is suitable for trial flights across the Atlantic but it was never intended for regular service on that route, he said.

LARGE SUM STOLEN FROM TOWN BOARD'S SAFE.

Considerable mystery surrounds the disappearance of $544 from a safe in a room occupied by the town board in the rear of police headquarters in the Catskill Mail building in Catskill Saturday night. According to H. E. Gordon, manager of the J. J. Newbury Company store, he placed the money in a large safe used by Justice of the Peace Francis A. Ruf, about 9:40 o'clock Saturday night. This cash represented the receipts of the store from the time the banks closed at noon in Catskill. The thief knew the combination of the safe as the safe was not damaged in any way.

REV. GEORGE GULICK HEADS SUNDAY SCHOOLS OF ORANGE.

The Rev. Dr. George H. Gulick, pastor of the Associated Reformed Church of Newburgh, on Saturday was elected president of the Orange County Sunday School Association at the convention held in Middletown. Dr. Gulick has been a resident of Orange county for only a year. Previous to going to Newburgh he was for six years head of the Ulster County Sunday School Association, and before that president of the Westchester Association.

Vessel and Crew Aground in Storm

Miami, Fla., Sept. 25 (AP).—The steamer Domira, believed to be a freighter, is aground off Abaco Island in the Bahamas with little chance of saving its crew unless a breeches buoy can be rigged to land, a distress call received by tropical radio from the Domira said this morning.

The Domira radioed it was aground 100 feet off shore in a raging sea and being battered by winds of hurricane force. It asked for immediate assistance.

Greet Abaco Island is where the Washington weather bureau, in its 10 a. m. warning, located the center of the tropical disturbance moving toward the Florida mainland.

The Domira is a British steel freighter of 5,130 tons. Her home port is London.

ANOTHER MEXICAN AIR RACE ENTRANT LOST.

Brownsville, Texas, Sept. 25 (AP).—Three Mexican aviators, entrants in the Mexico City-Kansas City air race, planned to turn back south early today to search for their flying compatriot, Lieutenant Colonel Fernando Proal, missing since the fliers left Tampico yesterday afternoon. The trio intended to return here in time to take off at 9 a. m., with Colonel Art Goebel, Kansas City, and Colonel Roberto Fierro, for Wewoka, Okla., regardless whether Proal had been found.

The Mexican aviators and Colonel Goebel began the race from the Mexican capital on Monday, but the American was the only flier to negotiate the stormy mountainous region in the Southern Republic and reach Browsville. Colonel Fierro was forced down in the eastern part of the state of Hidalgo and the other Mexican aviators turned back.

The Mexicans started the race again yesterday, and all but Lieutenant Colonel Proal, arrived at Brownsville where Colonel Goebel had waited for them.

THERE ARE 52,000 MENTALLY AFFLICTED WAR VETERANS.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 25 (AP).—A plea that the government begin at once a building program that will provide hospital beds for all mentally disabled veterans is made in the report of the national rehabilitation committee of the American Legion, announced today at the Legion's headquarters, moved here temporarily from Indianapolis for the convention next week.

"There are at present 52,000 mentally afflicted World War veterans whose disabilities are connected with the service and for which they are now in receipt of compensation," says the report. "Yet less than one-fourth of these veterans—12,000—are now in veterans' bureau hospitals, receiving government care and treatment."

"The condition of many of these 40,000 veterans is steadily growing worse," the report continues. "Soon thousands of them will require hospitalization. It frequently takes from a month to three months or longer to secure a hospital bed."

Through the efforts of the committee $4,127,225 was recovered for veterans and their dependants during the fiscal year ended June 30, says the report. This was said to be an increase of more than $1,500,000 over the preceding fiscal year.

MRS. GANN'S FREE FIELD.

The great question as to whether President Hoover and Premier MacDonald can reach a satisfactory understanding and bring their respective countries to agreement on naval construction and "disarmament" is not what interests Washington society. What interests Washington society is the question of table precedence at the three dinners planned in honor of the British Prime Minister and his daughter, at the White House, at the British Embassy and at Secretary Stimson's home. According to a special dispatch from the Capital to the New York World, social Washington is "arming itself for a society 'battle of the century'" on the arrival of England's Premier, and the dispatch contains significant mention of "the skirmish for dinner table precedence between Mrs. Alice Longworth and Mrs. Edward Gann, or between Mrs. Gann and Mrs. Longworth—just to be impartial."

But, as Speaker Longworth has announced that he and his family will be on vacation in Cincinnati until after Mr. MacDonald departs, Mrs. Gann would seem to be left virtually in command of the field. For with Mrs. Longworth out of the way—perhaps prudently out of the way— will there be any foeswoman left worthy of the steel of the redoubtable Mrs. Gann? "There has been no indication," reads the dispatch, "that Mrs. Gann will depart from Washington (not she!). Informal judgment of competent officials is that there will be little trouble about the comparative rank of Chief Justice Taft's lady, indicating that Mrs. Taft will be seated below Mrs. Gann." Premier MacDonald is naturally under the impression that he is coming to a democratic country, but if he should happen to overhear any of the lingering clamor of this "society battle of the century," he is likely to lose one more illusion.

THE EUROPEAN ALLIANCE.

A good deal of nonsense is heard lately regarding the proposal for an economic "United States of Europe". Some Americans seem sure that this is a direct and deadly threat against American prosperity. What Premier Briand has been urging, and what the European nations seem inclined at last to take seriously, is a principle that Americans have been preaching to Europe ever since the war. We have told them to get together, to forget their prejudices and differences and emphasize their common interests, to lower their tariff barriers against each other and let economic streams take their natural course, to cut out the irritating red tape on their frontiers which prevents easy and friendly intercourse, to help instead of hinder each other in developing their resources. All this is what we have done among our own states.

Just as it is to the benefit of one of our states to have prosperous neighboring states, and to the benefit of the whole United States to have prosperous neighbors in Canada and Mexico, so it is beneficial to us to have Europe prosperous.

This doctrine has been preached for years by Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, who was head of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce under Secretary Hoover. He maintains that Europe is not planning an economic alliance against us at all, because Europe knows that it needs our capital and cooperation, and benefits from our prosperity. He declares that whatever Europe can do to improve its economic well-being will make us still more prosperous, because it will offer a richer market.

...T OF A CAR.

The class in automobile expenditure will now take pencil and paper. The problem is, "Can we afford a car?" Every member of the class may copy these figures, submitted by the American Motorists' Association, and reach his own conclusion:

The average cost of operation and maintenance for an American automobile in 1928 was $293. That included $141 for fuel and lubricants, $62 for labor, $55 for replacements, $34 for tires and $21 for accessories. Depreciation averaged $125, based on a retail price of $675 per car and a life of seven years. Total cost of owning and running a car, $418 for the year. And as Patrick Henry said, "We have no way of judging the future except by the past."

All right. The average family will study these average figures and decide that it's too expensive to buy an average car, then go right out and buy one. And perhaps it's just as well. For our national prosperity seems to be mainly an automobile prosperity.

People don't just buy cars because they're prosperous. They are prosperous largely because they buy cars. According to the economists, automobiles are the biggest factor in keeping the whole industrial machine running at its record-breaking pace.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By JAMES W. BARTON, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act)

LIVER IN RIGHT PLACE.

Did you ever think how well placed the liver is to do all the work demanded of it.

It is right close to the stomach so that when the food leaves the stomach and enters the small intestine the bile from the liver, is immediately poured out upon it and helps to put it into shape to be absorbed into the blood.

Then when the blood has absorbed all the food material, whether that food is helpful or harmful, it carries it immediately to the liver by means of the portal vein. It has no long journey to take; just a few inches.

What happens to the liver?

The liver allows certain food products to pass through it practically unchanged but it takes the starchy foods which make up the bulk of your food, and turns them into sugar, and it is sugar that gives your tissues the energy to keep you alive.

They also help to build tissue and particularly help in making of the various secretions or juices of the body.

If a food has anything in it that can be turned into sugar and thence into energy, the liver makes a real job of doing it.

The liver has the ability to make foods and other materials safe for you to eat, which if injected into the blood directly, would cause death.

Then you'd think that nature knew that man might rest after hard work, or rest whether he worked or not, and so the liver was placed directly under the lungs.

Why?

So that every time you breathe your lungs will strike the floor of the chest or roof of the abdomen, that is the diaphragm muscle that separates the chest from the abdomen, and press it against the liver.

Thus the liver gets a "squeeze," or should get a squeeze, every time you draw in your breath, that is 16 to 18 times a minute when at rest, and twice that when you are working or exercising vigorously.

This squeezing stimulates the circulation in the liver and helps it to do all its jobs more thoroughly. In fact every time you bend your body forwards or side to side you squeeze the liver.

TWENTY AND TEN YEARS AGO.

Sept. 25, 1909.—Mrs. William W. Ten Broeck died at her home on Albany avenue.

Mrs. Sophie Graham, known as Sophie Beck, "Queen of Confidence Women," arrested at Atlantic City. She and her husband had been residents here, conducting a garage uptown.

Sept. 25, 1919.—Joseph Burns and Leroy Every fell from a scaffold at the Rafferty & Feeney boat yard into the Rondout creek and were injured.

Edwin Snow of this city elected state conductor at annual convention of the J. O. U. A. M. held at Binghamton.

HURLEY

Hurley, Sept. 25.—The Ladies' Aid Society of the Hurley Reformed Church is planning to have a turkey dinner on Wednesday evening, October 30.

Miss Sarah Elmendorf is visiting friends in Nantucket, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Levan Smith and mother, Mrs. Getzler, have been spending the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. William Coons and son Halstead, were in town last week visiting Mr. and Mrs. James Lockwood and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lockwood.

Extensive alterations have been made on the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dunbar. At the completion of the changes, those participating in the work enjoyed a picnic supper given them and their families by Mr. and Mrs. Dunbar.

It is hoped that as many of the Hurley people as possible will attend the Kingston Community concerts this season. The finest musicians are procured for these concerts, and it is a splendid opportunity to hear the best music at a minimum price.

The Rev. Dr. Duck is to be the preacher at Hurley Reformed Church next Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wilber of New Haven, Conn., have been visiting at the home of Miss Sarah DuMond.

Death Treasure

by R. A. J. WALLING

SYNOPSIS: Tom Grenofen writes a letter to Veronica but at instance mine than Laxton's message to the parade Comm. John. For Tom Laxton mentions a matter that has been in his mind ever since he first saw Veronica's flashing blue eyes. Somerfield and Tom deliver the treasure of the troublesome black bag to Laxton. He makes mysterious business of burning a package amid Fotherbury's exclamations and places it under a police guard. Three days later Veronica jumps off a train into Tom's arms—an accident this time. Veronica brings a companion—who was Miss Vandemeersen, but now is Mrs. Redslade of Newplace! Veronica postpones her explanations but later that day, she and Tom are alone in the Woodcot garden—a proposal and an acceptance, keyspress for two!

Chapter 19

REDSLADE'S STORY

SOMERFIELD stood the shock of the new relation between me and Veronica with his usual sangfroid when we told him at dinner that night.

At nine o'clock came an urgent message from Laxton demanding the instant presence of Somerfield and myself at the Lord Nelson. He took us at once to his room.

"Mr. Redslade!" said he.

A tall man rose from a chair at the table. I started back, unable to suppress a cry.

"Cousin John!"

Blind as it may seem, we had not till that moment dreamed of connecting the fugitive with Redslade. The legend of his death had been firmly established in our minds. But now explanations of the inexplicable rushed up in a flood. But also, with them, fresh conundrums.

Why had he masqueraded as Mr. Richard? Spent three years in prison? Allowed his ancestral estate to be dissipated while he had one fortune lying in a Belgian bank, and another in gold and jewels apparently at his hand?

And, above all, what was Veronica's part in the complication?

Laxton was speaking:

"I've arranged with Mr. Fotherbury for Eastley to come to Newplace at half-past nine and meet us there. I think we shall then get to the bottom of Pell's riddle. But Mr. Grenofen and Mr. Somerfield ought to be put wise to the preliminaries, I think, eh?"

"It's a pretty rotten story," Redslade objected.

"Well, we needn't drag it out. This was how it shaped. Mr. Redslade unexpectedly inherited Newplace while he was a youth in the army, where he struck up his close friendship with Pell. He did not come of age till the war was over.

"Then he found himself the owner of an estate so encumbered that he could not keep it up. He got into the hands of the moneylenders, and finally he fell to the share of the firm of Smithins. They made an arrangement with him to discharge all the mortgages on Newplace and give him a new one—a real thumper.

"His lawyers were dead against the arrangement, but the sight of £10,000 in cash was too much for him. Very soon he couldn't keep up his interest. Then Smithins jumped on him.

"Mr. Redslade was ruined. Not long before he had met Miss Vandenessen and fallen in love with her. And that brings me to Pell and the Seabrokes—because it was Pell who introduced him to the Seabrokes at their apartment in the Rue Rogier, and there that he met Miss Vandenessen.

"You're already got the hang of Pell's identity—Philip Lincoln,—an old acquaintance of Mrs. Seabroke in her younger days, a neighbor of Lincoln's mother. Pell, in two holidays in Belgium, had visited Mrs. Seabroke in Brussels and her daughter at Bruges.

"On the third visit, in 1924, he had his friend Redslade with him. Pell was a man of different social rank from Mr. Redslade—an accountant in the city. At various times, he made violent efforts to save Mr. Redslade from his besetting sin of gambling. They all failed.

"Now, you know that Pell and Mr. Redslade were together in Brussels in the summer of 1925. Pell had gone with him to Ostend at the most desperate point in his fortunes, just after the foreclosure on Newplace. Pell feared what Redslade might do—he tried to commit suicide. You know that the report of his death was accepted as a fact.

"But Pell rescued him that night. He chased his maddened friend along the dique from the Casino to the Quai des Pecheurs, where he went over into the water. Pell followed, dragged him ashore in the darkness of the railway pier, spent two awful days with him in one of the back alleys of Ostend, and finally took him off to Bruges in the hope that Miss Vandenessen would cure him of his melancholia.

"Miss Vandenessen was staying in Brussels with the Seabrokes. They went there, and unhappily found that Commander Seabroke, whom they both then met for the first time, had joined his family.

"You know Commander Seabroke. To him, Redslade as owner of Newplace was a desirable acquaintance. But when Pell brought to his house this ruined man, appearing to claim sympathy and the hand of his daughter's friend, Seabroke saw red. There was a terrific row.

"Pell took him away. But the report of his own death suggested to Redslade the conduct that caused all the trouble afterward. He would have one fling with his last few hundred francs. If he lost, he would stay dead.

"The same night was the night of the seven coups at the Kursaal. Mr. Redslade knew nothing of Marling's presence in the crowd if he was there. Neither did Pell.

"They did meet Marling on the boat next morning. He seemed anxious to avoid them, but they were full of a scheme for employing the windfall to come to some arrangement with Smithins, and they mentioned it to Marling. He would listen to nothing. Again Mr. Redslade made a false step. He told Marling he meant to remain dead till the question was settled, and that he and Pell were going to stop at the Lord Warden that night.

"At Dover they lost sight of him. What Marling did in the few hours between the arrival of the boat and 10 o'clock at night when the scuffle took place on the cliffs we can only guess. There's something in the background of that.

"But the actual fact is that Mr. Redslade and Pell were attacked by three men whom they did not know and might have come badly off if Mr. Redslade had not been a bit of a bruiser and an expert with the upper cut—"

Laxton rubbed his chin and smiled with mock ruefulness.

"He got a bit too much weight behind it that time and laid out his man too permanently. The essential point is that when they chased the other men who ran away, they found three running, not two, and they overtook the third—who was Marling."

I gasped.

"Ah," said Somerfield. "Nasty person, the padre! But why—"

"Why didn't they snaffle him? Once more, Mr. Redslade's inability to see that in this country a man can't stay anonymous without great risk to himself. He has to keep Marling out of the picture because Marling knows him. So he lets Marling go.

"After the chase they come and find the man they knocked unconscious. In a fit of mistaken conscientiousness they tell the police. They give their false names. And then the die is cast. That's irrevocable.

"When the man dies they are in the cart, and presently out of the cart into the jug. And all the rest follows as the night the day. I could moralize on it—but if I do we shall keep Mr. Fotherbury waiting."

Redslade had fidgeted during the latter part of Laxton's recital. Now he jumped up.

"Shall we go and finish it off?" said he.

"Right away," Laxton replied. "Pity that the only character missing from the play is Hamlet. Marling won't be there. . . . I'll take the book of the words, Mr. Redslade."

Laxton picked up from the table the volume which had been lying for some days in my bookshelf, and we went out to visit Newplace Abbey.

First Day of Training School

Much interest is being shown in the coming specialized training school for parents of little children, to be given at the Y. W. C. A., Henry street, on the afternoons of October 9, 10 and 11. The following brief sketch will give a pretty clear idea of what the parent-pupils will be told about on the first afternoon, and it tells its own story of vital importance.

Menu-making is an important part of the modern mother's job, according to Miss Helen Hubbell, foods specialist at the New York State College of Home Economics at Cornell University, who will speak on planning meals for the pre-school child, on Wednesday, October 9, at 2 p. m. Miss Hubbell will show how the child's food needs may best be met by the daily meals.

Miss Hubbell believes that careful cooking and attractive serving have much to do with the child's liking for foods. She recommends simple foods well prepared. The diet must contain the elements necessary for building bone as well as for muscle and red blood. The food needs of the child in the family are different from the food needs of the adult members. The adult because his growth is complete requires enough food to supply material for activity and repair but the child, because he is growing, needs beside this other particular foods for building materials.

Miss Hubbell has had wide experience in child nutrition. She has done special work in this field in several health centers in New York city as well as in the New Haven Hospital, which is associated with Yale University, where she assisted in the pediatric ward and worked in close connection with doctors. Last year she spent doing graduate work in Columbia University, where she was in touch with the recent studies in child nutrition there.

Prohibition Agent Wounded.

San Antonio, Texas, Sept. 25 (AP).—Charles Stevens, Federal Prohibition agent, was shot and seriously wounded early today in a gun battle with several alleged bootleggers on a highway near here. Stevens and two other Federal Prohibition officers had raided a still in Atascosa county, and were returning to San Antonio when they were attacked.

S. A. Drive Reaches $3,500

The county-wide drive of the Salvation Army for $6,000 has so far reached the $3,500 mark, Tuesday night's meeting of the workers at the citadel on North Front street having added $650 to contributions previously collected by an organization of zealous workers.

Mrs. Arthur Wicks, captain of a very live team, had the best report at Tuesday's meeting. The sum turned in by Mrs. Wicks added to the warm enthusiasm of the campaign workers, who favored her and those working on the team with a hearty cheer.

Tonight's report is expected to swell the total considerably. Some of the team capains were unable to be present at Tuesday's meeting, but let the campaign heads in on the glad tidings that they were wholeheartedly on the job and would be ready to make encouraging returns tonight.

That the Salvation Army will get its quota of $8,000 is something of which the drive heads, Ensign Vernon Van Syckle and John Porter, are certain. The people of this city have shown themselves in sympathy with the work of the organization and are contributing freely.

Many have not waited for a visit from drive workers, but sent their contributions to Ensign Van Syckle by check. This is considered a very good way and all who can do this are advised to adopt the method. If the contributor desires the amount to be credited to any one team, he or she need mention only the team and its captain, and the amount will be credited to the team.

FALL PROGRAM FOR GIRL RESERVES STARTED

The fall program of the Girl Reserve Department of the Y. W. C. A. will open this week with three important meetings. All girls of the city are requested to attend one of these meetings.

A rally of all grade school girls (girls 12 years old and older) will be held in the Y. W. C. A. gymnasium Thursday afternoon, September 26, at 4 o'clock.

Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock there will be a rally for high school girls. The older high school girls extend a special invitation to the members of the new freshman class to be present at this meeting. Plans will be talked over concerning a setting-up conference for the fall and a Girl Reserve membership campaign.

On Saturday morning at 10 o'clock the Blue Bird Club (girls 8-11 years old) will meet at the Y. W. C. A. for a picnic hike.

New Cord Front Wheel Drive Car

The new Cord front wheel drive automobile, a product of the Auburn Motor Company, which is on display at the Kingston Auburn Sales Company, 526 Broadway, offers a motor car unique in appearance and mechanical construction.

The hood on the new Cord is necessarily long to house the motor and transmission, the body is low, resting an inch or two above the car's running board. The appearance created reminds the onlooker of a sleek greyhound.

Among the features found in the Cord are gear shift lever working from the dash board, traction by pushing rather than pulling, reinforced frame due to lack of bulky rear axle, remarkable ease in steering, no vibration in rear of car because of absence of driving power under rear seat, front and rear seat on same level and accessibility of all mechanical parts.

The makers of the car claim that it is almost impossible to put the machine out of control. A demonstration proved that it was impossible to slur the car no matter how sharp the turn. The machine could be speeded at curves with perfect safety. It was shown that power in the front wheels was an advantage in pulling the car out of ruts and holes.

The car on display in Kingston was furnished with every known convenience possible, and compares favorably with the finish of America's finest cars.

LYONSVILLE.

Lyonsville, Sept. 25.—The annual hot chicken supper will be served on the Lyonsville Church grounds Thursday evening, October 3. Supper will be served from 5:30 o'clock until all are served. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to come and help make this supper a great success.

Mrs. Sherman Barley and Miss Mildred Barley were out soliciting for the chicken supper on Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Miller spent Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Miller in this place.

Church services were well attended on Sunday. Services Sunday, September 29, at 2:15 p. m. Everyone is invited to attend these services, which are conducted by the Rev. T. S. Braithwaite.

Rain is much needed in this place as a number of wells are dry.

The Ladies' Aid will hold their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Orr E. Christiana on October 10, at 2 p. m. New members and visitors are always welcome.

Augustus Smith had the misfortune to fall and hurt his shoulder the past week.

Miss Kathleen Conner spent Monday in Kingston.

Fire Destroys Haunted House

Runnemede, N. J., Sept. 25 (AP).—Fire of undetermined origin today destroyed the famous "haunted house", between Runnemede and Barrington.

As mysterious as the manifestations which for the past three years have been alarming and amusing natives and thousand of thrill seekers, fire started in the basement of the large frame dwelling, and despite efforts of firemen from six towns, leveled the building.

The place had been vacant since last March, when the last occupants fled, abandoning all household effects.

For the last three years alarming reports of midnight revels of unearthly visitors in the place have been made with growing frequency. Unearthly moans, screams and music have been heard, according to numerous terrified witnesses, and many times large blue light, apparently carried in a spectral hand, has been seen passing through the rooms.

So famous did the place become that on April 30 of this year a spiritualist gathering from Camden held a midnight seance in the living room with hundreds of curious spectators surrounding the place.

After several hours the spiritualists emerged from the house pale faced and trembling, with whispered tales of flitting ghosts, and the visits of spectres of various sorts, accompanied by appropriate heart quaking sounds.

Oddly enough, none of the spectators shared in the thrilling scenes or heard the alleged sounds. The house was built more than a quarter of a century ago.

Market For Fruits And Vegetables

New York, Sept. 25—State Department of Agriculture and Markets)—There was an active wholesale demand for lettuce of fancy quality. Receipts continued limited and consisted largely of poor to ordinary stock. The very finest Big Boston from upstate sold as high as $3.00 per crate. The poorest worked out at $1.00. Western Iceberg lettuce sold at $4.00 to $6.00.

Growers of Iceberg lettuce in Imperial Valley, California, are planning to increase their plantings to the very high total of 35,000 acres this winter, and the winter crop in Arizona may be increased to 18,000 acres. Prospective plantings in four early states are 55,740 acres, compared with 46,820 last season.

Western New York quinces have begun to arrive in carlots. The fruit showed fairly good quality and size, but was rather green. The demand was slow and number one stock brought $2.00 to $2.25 per bushel basket and the number two $1.00 to $1.25.

Little activity prevailed for celery. Price changes, however, were few and small. Upstate stock in the rough, packed in two-thirds crates, brought $1.50 to $2.50, mainly $1.75 to $2.25

Receipts of Elberta peaches from the western part of the state were limited Trading was moderate. The market, however, was a trifle firmer. Bushel baskets realized chiefly $2.50 to $3.00 and half bushels $1.65 to $1.75.

During the preceding week New York state started 504 carloads of peaches to consuming centers as against 101 for the week before.

The moderate supply of cauliflower met a fairly prompt outlet in a stronger market. Colorado crates jobbed out at $2.75 to $3.25. Catskill mountain offerings of fair to fancy quality peddled out at $3.00 to $4.50.

Arrivals of state apples were moderate. Fancy fruit of most kinds met a ready sale but offgrade dragged. Western New York Wealthy apples, U. S. grade number one, two and one half inches, wholesaled at $2.00 to $2.25 per bushel basket. Hudson Valley McIntosh of the same grade and size ranged from $2.50 to $3.25.

Apple exports from this country and Canada for the week ended Sept. 14, amounted to 65,174 barrels and 48,476 boxes. During the corresponding week last season exports totaled 78,834 barrels and 96,519 boxes.

PORT EWEN

Port Ewen, Sept. 25.—Miss Elizabeth Bishop of Harrisburgh, Pa., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Chester DeGroff, on Stout avenue.

Each crate similar to the one that may be seen in the picture contains 100 canaries, which are protected by a canvas covering with proper provision for ventilation to keep the birds comfortable. The above picture shows how the crates of canaries are loaded aboard ship at Hamburg, Germany.

OFFICE CAT.

By Ahrens

If all the good people were clever,
And all the clever people were good,
The world would be nicer than ever
We thought that it possibly could.

But somehow, 'tis seldom or never
The two hit it off as they should;
The good are so harsh to the clever,
The clever so rude to the good!

Our wife doesn't want us to bring home a friend for dinner without letting her know in advance and when we let her know in advance she tells us not to bring him.

The Safest Way.

A writer sent a poem to a editor, who, it seems, had little use for verse. The title of the poem was, "Why Am I Alive?" The editor wrote, when he returned the poem, "Because you sent your poem by mail, instead of delivering it in person."

If you owe a debt and have the money pay it and keep the money in circulation. Just a few dollars will pay many a debt in a month.

Usher (to cold, dignified lady): "Are you a friend of the groom?"
The Lady: "Indeed, no, I am the bride's mother."

Love your enemies. They merely lie about you. Your friends are the ones who let the truth out.

You can always win an argument with a woman by listening.

"What's the matter with the 'eleven' this year?" asked one college boy of another.
"Ah," growled the other, "the halves and quarters ain't worth two cents."

Coming Faster Now.

The kind of person Barnum said was born every minute is now born twice a minute or at even shorter intervals.

Sweet Young Thing—I want a collar, please, for my husband.
Clerk—Yes, madam. What size does he wear?
Sweet Young Thing—Well I really have forgotten, but I can reach around his neck with both hands.

It's fine to be unselfish if you can keep quiet about it.

Nothing is more satisfying than the consciousness of having done a good day's work and gotten results.

Fashion Note for Grocers' Wives: The banana was the original slip on.

What's That Coal Man's Number.

Gone are the days,
When we could grin
At the sight of
Our empty bin!

Amazing But True.

The human brain is a wonderful organ. It starts working the minute we get up in the morning and doesn't stop until we get to the office.

"You lead the orchestra, sir," asked the tired business man in the cabaret.
"I do," replied Professor Jazzolo proudly.
"Then would you mind leading them out for a bit of air."

A Curse.

"Drink," said the Irish preacher, "is the greatest curse of the country. It makes ye quarrel with yer neighbors. It makes ye shoot at yer landlord. And it makes ye miss nim."

ST. REMY

St. Remy, Sept. 24.—Sunday services, September 29: Sunday School 1:30; preaching by our pastor, the Rev. Philip Goertz, 2:30 p. m. All are welcome to these services.

There will be consistory meeting Thursday evening, September 26, at the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pokorney are on their vacation, motoring through the eastern states.

Thee has been a light frost in this section, but little damage has been done.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Carman were week-end guests of Mrs. M. F. Haines.

The school tax roll has been received by the collector, K. Sutton. Taxes will be collected at one per cent for 30 days, after that at 5 per cent.

There was a large turn out from St. Remy to the primary at Rifton last Monday night. Kenneth Krom was elected.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ellsworth and daughter, Beatrice, and Mr. and Mrs. George Dunn were Sunday guests of Benjamin Johnston at his beautiful and commodious camp at Sundown.

AT LAST! THE SUN IS UP! PHEW! WHAT A NIGHT! ALL I DID WAS DREAM ABOUT VIOLA BEING DISINHERITED. I SAW HER SCRUBBING FLOORS, AND FINALLY ENDING UP IN THE POORHOUSE.
I CAN STAND SEEING THE DAM FLOP, AND SINKING MY LAST CENT IN THIS DUMP, BUT TO HAVE VIOLA SUFFERING MAKES ME SEE RED!
IT'S JUST MY LUCK TO BE FLAT-BROKE AT A TIME WHEN I COULD DO SOME REAL GOOD WITH A LITTLE MONEY. ----WELL, THIS ISN'T GETTING ANYWHERES. COME ON, LIZZIE, IF THERE'S ANY PEP LEFT IN YOUR CYLINDERS LET'S SEE YOU PROVE IT.
MUSIC IS GOING SOMEPLACE, BUT YOU'D NEVER GUESS WHERE. HOLD ONTO YOUR HATS ---- YOU'LL BE SURPRISED.

Really Is Woodchuck

Ground hog is a term applied in the southern part of the United States to the marmot, better named woodchuck. It is 15 to 18 inches long. The color is blackish or grizzled above, chestnut-red below; the form thick; the head broad and flat, the legs short and thick, the tail bushy. The hair is rather soft, but the whiskers are long and stout.

American Jewish Farmers

Jewish farmers in the United States cultivate a million acres. Their real and personal property is worth $175,000,000, according to the twenty-ninth annual report of the Jewish Agricultural society.

CHRYSLER

has now definitely raised motoring to a still higher plane. The difference in favor of the new Chryslers is decisive and overpowering. You must personally experience this new performance if you would be abreast of the times. Only by demonstration can you learn fully of the great new performance possibilities ushered in by the many characteristic new Chrysler features such as these:

MULTI-RANGE

—the new type of Chrysler gear shift by means of which the driver is able to dominate any modern traffic situation whether on the congested city streets, on the open highway, or in the mountains. Nothing new to learn. Makes driving a joy; shifting, easy—sure—smooth. Engine, gas and oil are conserved while every previous limit of performance is far extended.

DOWN-DRAFT

—the new type of carburetion principle which literally reverses previous fueling practice, with incredible gains in power, smoothness, surety, economy and accessibility. Not merely a gravity manifold, but the same scientific method of carburetion so successfully employed in many recent astonishing aviation endurance flights.

ARCHITONIC

—the new principles and methods of Architonic body construction give the new Chrysler bodies their aristocratic smartness and style, their "dreadnought" strength, permanent silence and restful riding qualities. Actually scores of such basic betterments await you in the new Chryslers!

FACE-TO-FACE REALISM

A glorious new "something" in radio reception

WORDS can no more describe this marvelous new quality of FACE-TO-FACE REALISM than they can express the thrill in the golden voice of a great artist. To hear it is to feel it deeply . . . but the wonder of it cannot be told.

In this amazing new Voice of Sparton there is a "something" more satisfying than its richness . . . more delightful than its purity . . . more captivating than its smooth fullness. The sparkle of PERSONALITY seems to come to you with the song. The mood of your entertainers seems to come with the music.

In FACE-TO-FACE REALISM there is the sensation of nearness . . . of intimacy . . . of the actual PRESENCE of the artists. Your entertainers become living, charming persons, and you relax in the joy of their companionship.

This is the delightful sensation that Sparton dealers invite you to experience. They will welcome you, even if only to listen, for to know the thrill of FACE-TO-FACE REALISM is to know a desire that only the ownership of a Sparton can satisfy. Visit your neighborhood dealer.

Stomach Ills; Ragged Nerves; Sleeplessness Relieved ByNu-Erb

"This Medicine Has Helped Me After 15 Years' Suffering" Says Mr. Emerson Lake.

Because Dr. French's Nu-Erb is a preparation which nature herself might have compounded, it acts on the human system in a perfectly natural way and that is why cases of stomach, kidney, liver and bowel troubles, rheumatism, nervousness or neuritis are often relieved by this modern medicine in cases where harsh treatments and specifics would fail to overcome the trouble. Even in long standing cases, Nu-Erb often proves effective, for example here is the case of Mr. Emerson Lake, 148 Fair St., Kingston, N. Y.

"For the past fifteen years, I have suffered from organic ailments and my case seemed to be so deep seated that even expensive treatments and medicines failed to even give me temporary relief," said Mr. Lake.

"In spite of all that I used, the indigestion and fermentation of food in my stomach became worse from year to year and finally I was afraid to eat because of the misery I suffered afterwards. My sleep became disturbed several times each night because of weakened kidneys. I became subject to dizzy spells and sick bilious attacks. My nerves were weakened and my bowels would not act without the continual aid of harsh laxatives.

"After all other medicines had failed, Nu-Erb seemed to be just the thing that I had been needing for years and now after a thorough treatment of this medicine, my kidneys, stomach and liver are all in better shape than I ever expected was possible. I am free from indigestion, gas and sourness for the first time in years. The dizzy spells, spots before my eyes and constipation have all been relieved. My nerves are steady and most times I sleep the whole night through without being disturbed by my kidneys. It is hardly necessary for me to add that I never hesitate to recommend this splendid medicine."

McBride's Drug Store, 312 Wall St., is headquarters in Kingston for Dr. French's Nu-Erb. Go see the Nu-Erb man now making his headquarters there and let him explain to you the merits of this remarkable medicine.

Graduation Class Of Nine Nurses

A class of nine nurses will be graduated by the Benedictine Hospital School of Nursing on Wednesday evening, October 2, at St. Mary's School Hall, corner of Broadway and McEntee street, where commencement exercises will be held with the Rev. Joseph B. Scully, V. F., president of the hospital, presiding.

The class of 1929 is as follows: Sister Mary Austin of the Benedictine Order; Elaine Conyes, Coxsackie; Viola Speenburg, Catskill; Mae Turner, Kingston; Gladys Lynch, Kingston; Alma Rich, Kingston; Bertha Grefrath, Gardiner; Mary Healy, New York; Agnes Woerner, Kingston; Elizabeth Woerf, Kingston.

Commencement exercises will start at 8:00 o'clock next Wednesday evening, and it is expected that St. Mary's Hall will be filled to capacity as it is but a few years past when the Benedictine graduated its nurses. This year's program, arranged by the nuns, promises to be as interesting as any ever presented.

The graduates will be entertained at a dinner and luncheon next Tuesday at 1 p. m. at the Colony, Woodstock, as the guests of the Benedictine Hospital Ladies' Auxiliary. All members of the Auxiliary who wish to attend are asked to notify Mrs. Harold L. Van Wagenen, chairman, not later than Friday of this week. This can be done by phoning 1981.

ACTIVITIES AT ALBANY AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH

At the mid-week service Thursday evening at the Albany Avenue Baptist Church the topic will be, "Our Task." All are asked to come and tell what they think the church ought to do in its work during the coming year.

The first meeting of the season of the Woman's Missionary Society will be held in the church parlors on Friday afternoon of this week at three o'clock. The hostesses will be Mrs. W. E. Simmons and Mrs. F. B. Matthews. Devotions will be conducted by Mrs. J. D. Field and a vocal solo rendered by Mrs. Norman Swibold. The speaker will be Miss Charlotte M. Huntoon, of Syracuse, who is missionary education director for New York state.

This coming Sunday is Rally Day and a large attendance is expected at all services. There will be special Rally Day and commencement exercises at the Bible school session at 11:45 a. m., with an interesting program including the presentation of promotion certificates. The address will be delivered by Professor B. C. Van Ingen, principal of the high school.

INVITED TO RECEPTION AT HISTORIC RHINEBECK HOME.

Chancellor Livingston Chapter, D. A. R., of Rhinebeck, N. Y., has extended a cordial invitation to Wiltwyck Chapter to view their new chapter house and attend an informal reception at the home of Mrs. de Laporte, 46 Livingston street, from 2 to 5 o'clock Friday afternoon, September 27.

The new chaptar house, the oldest in the village of Rhinebeck, is the house where General Montgomery brought his bride in 1773 and where they lived until his death before Quebec, December 31, 1775. It stood originally on Montgomery street but was moved in 1859 to its present site on Lot 58 of church lands presented to the "Old Dutch Church by Janet Montgomery, wife of the general. In 1928 it was purchased and restored by Mr. and Mrs. Theodore de Laporte and is now the headquarters of Chancellor Livingston Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

CHILDREN WILL CONTEND FOR MANY PRIZES

The children's "Heart Tag Day," which is to be held here on Saturday by the Volunteers of America, will have headquarters for the day at the court house with Miss Frieda L. Hayes in charge and at the public library with Miss Ethel Salzmann in charge.

Local merchants have signified their willingness to cooperate and are offering several attractive prizes and theatre tickets for those who secure the largest amounts for their tags.

The uptown prizes will be: First, a lovely enameled mesh bag, given by Pitts & Sons; second prize, a ukulele, given by E. Winter's Sons; third prize, a No. 2 Brownie camera, given by the Whelan Drug Company; fourth prize, a Waterman fountain pen, given by Richard Meyer, and fifth prize, a two-pound box of chocolates, given by Nekos Brothers.

Downtown prizes will be: First, the choice of a ukulele or a Midget Ingersoll watch, given by Diehl's store; second prize, a No. 2 Brownie camera, given by William O'Reilly's store; third prize, a $2.50 fountain pen given by Hergert's drug store; fourth prize, a two-pound box of chocolates, given by a friend, and fifth prize, a flash light, given by Miller's pharmacy. Those who do not win a prize, but who secure at least $3 for their tags, will receive a pass to either the Broadway or Kingston Theatre, given by Mr. Lazarus.

"During the past few years," said Mrs. Booth, in one of her recent radio talks, "over 170,000 children in America have been helped to future good citizenship through our organization.

The tags will be sold largely in the residence districts for whatever the purchaser is willing to give.

Peculiar Recipe

As a cure for hydrophobia, a medical book published in 1819 recommends a decoction said to have been "patronized by the legislature of New York," the recipe for which ran as follows: "One ounce of jawbone of a dog, burned and pulverized to a fine dust, the false tongue of a newly foaled colt, also dried and pulverized, and measures of verdi-grease, which is raised on old copper."

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank our relatives and friends for their sympathy and beautiful floral offerings to the late Mrs. Julia A. Kelly.

Deaf Hear Again Through New Aid

Earpiece No Bigger Than Dime Wins Enthusiastic Following Ten-Day Free Trial Offer

After twenty-five years devoted exclusively to the manufacture of scientific hearing-aids, the Dictograph Products Co., Inc., Dept. 243M, 220 West 42nd Street, New York, N. Y., has just perfected a new model Acousticon that represents the greatest advance yet made in the recreation of hearing for the deaf. This latest Acousticon is featured by a tiny earpiece no bigger than a dime. Through this device, sounds are clearly and distinctly transmitted to subnormal ears with wonderful benefit to hearing and health alike. The makers offer an absolutely free trial for 10 days to any person who may be interested, and a letter will bring one of these remarkable aids to your home for a thorough and convincing test. Appreciate War Mothers Emblem

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 25 (AP).—In addition to the Distinguished Service Cross and other awards conferred for his World War service, General Charles P. Summerall today has an emblem the presentation of which he declared last night to be "the climax of a long life."

It is the emblem of the American War Mothers, presented to the Chief of Staff of the army at a session of the convention, which opened yesterday.

The presentation was made by Mrs. H. H. McClure, of Missouri, former national president, at the conclusion of the General's address. In accepting the emblem he said: "There is no richer reward; no one ever received or appreciated a reward more than I do this emblem of respect from the mothers of the men whom I commanded in battle.

"I feel that the climax has come to a long life. He continued. "In a little more than a year I shall be 64 years old and shall pass out of the army like after 41 years of following our country's flag.

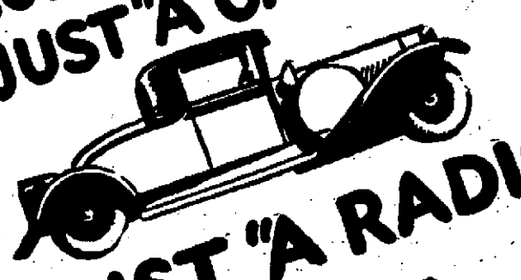
NOBODY BUYS JUST "A CAR"



or JUST "A RADIO"

WHY BUY JUST "COAL"

Discriminating and prudent buyers in practically every field ask for a make, or call for a brand.

It is a simple and easy way of specifying the kind and quality that you want.

Through the force of long established habit, people still order "coal." It is just as easy to order "Old Company's Lehigh Anthracite."

And the latter way brings you the superior coal known as "The Best Since 1820." A coal that actually gives you more heat per dollar than does any other household fuel that you can buy.

Moreover, the purity, density and uniformly high quality of Old Company's Lehigh Anthracite makes a fire of this coal exceptionally easy to control. Old Company's Lehigh Anthracite holds fire for extended periods under reduced draft, and responds quickly when the draft is increased.

News Items Of Civil War Days

(By C. A. Winchell.)

An old Ulster county newspaper of the issue of September 28, 1864, for many years in the possession of a late resident of Shokan, contains a number of interesting news items touching on current events of sixty-five years ago this month. President's Lincoln's last call for 300,000 men had but recently been issued, and Ulster county was preparing to fill her quota of 1,700 recruits. A complete list of the men called under the new draft was printed, town by town, taking up almost a full page of print.

Some of the Kingston items found in the news columns follow:

Frank Mike, formerly of this place, is 2nd Lieutenant of Co. G, Tenth Legion.

The Rondout Freeman printing office has been removed to the third floor of E. B. Newkirk's new building on Division street, directly opposite the post office.

Jesse F. Shafer, who went out with the 56th Regiment, Tenth Legion, in 1861, is now post quartermaster at Beaufort, S. C.

A ball held week before last at Washington Hall, Rondout, for charity's sweet sake, realized a clear profit of $164.65.

During the past week this village has been crowded with persons interested in the draft. Volunteers and substitutes seem to be plenty, but high prices are in demand. The brokers are lively, while the victims enjoy their luck about as meekly as an eel is supposed to enjoy a skinning.

Still other newsy notes are:

Robert Coyle, who went as substitute for Peter Cantine, Esq., of Saugerties, was taken prisoner on the 14th of last month.

The annual fair of the Ulster County Agricultural society takes place today. It is very likely that the prevailing interest in the draft will divert somewhat from the usual attention to the fair, still there will doubtless be a good exhibition.

The barn of William Goldsmith, at Glasco, was destroyed by fire on Wednesday morning before last, together with a large quantity of hay, grain, etc.

Democratic delegates of the Third assembly district met at the Eagle Hotel in Kingston on September 22. On motion of Thomas Hill, Ebenezer Westbrook was chosen chairman, and Dewitt C. Davis was appointed secretary. Andrew S. Weller of Wawarsing was nominated for assembly from the third district.

Casualties in the 120th. We are indebted to J. Rudolph Tappen, lieutenant-colonel commanding the 120th Regt., N. Y. V., for the following list of casualties:

Sept. 10, 1864. Private John Plaskett, head, very severe, on picket.

Sept. 10, Private Wm. D. Burgess, right leg, slight, on picket.

Sept. 11, Private Daniel Bloomer, through left arm, slight, on picket.

Sept. 12, Capt. James H. Everitt, flesh wound, slight, on picket.

Sept. 12, Private Owen O'Brien, slight, in camp.

Sept. 13, Private James Irvine, shot through the body, very severe, on picket.

Sept. 18, Private Egbert McMurdy, thigh, slight, in camp.

Sept. 18, Private Peter Rafferty, face and arm, severe, on picket.

Sept. 19, Private Daniel D. Smith, left arm fractured, severe, on picket.

Amendment to Supervisor Hardenberg's resolution by Supervisor Hasbrouck: "And that all expenses incurred by any town in raising moneys for filling their quota and negotiating their town bonds be assumed and repaid by the county, in bonds at their market value, and that such expense be audited by the finance committee." Lost: ayes 3; noes 13.

Supervisor Watson of Olive: Resolved, that the true intent and meaning of the resolution passed by this board on the 23rd day of Sept. inst., authorizing and providing for an additional bounty of $500 for volunteers who shall enlist and be mustered into the service of the United States to fill the quota of Ulster county under the call of the president made the 18th day of July last, is hereby declared to be to supply the place of town bounties which have been voted and provided for by separate town actions, and the same is not designed to furnish $500 bounty in addition to such town bounties. Adopted.

Rondout and Ellenville Railroad:

The surveys for a railroad from Rondout to Ellenville are completed and the engineers are now engaged in making up the map, profile and estimate of the cost. Two routes have been surveyed from Rondout to Stone Ridge, where they join, and from thence but one to Ellenville. The first route is by way of Eddyville, Whiteport and the Fifth Binnewater, by which the distance is 26¾ miles. The second is by way of "Jacob's Valley" to Kingston, thence via Hurley, Marbletown and Stone Ridge, making the distance 29¼ miles. Either route is feasible. It now only remains with the people to determine whether there shall be a railroad in this valley or not.

Following are the prices of some of the household necessities which the laboring man must provide for himself and family.

Common sheeting, 75 cents a yard; sugar, 32 cents; tea, $2, calico, 45 cents; thread, 20 cents a spool; coffee, 70 cents; pepper and spices, $1 a pound.

Nothing Newer than Today's Hudson

The greatness of Hudson value is expressed with unparalleled power in the way its NEWNESS stands out among the Newest and Latest models the industry offers.

Here we find feature after feature of Hudson's origination, now offered in the new models of the more expensive cars.

Here we find, featured as new, such advantages as radiator shutters—first introduced and for years standard with Hudson.

Here we find Hudson type brakes, Hudson type shock absorbers. Counterbalanced crankshafts are much to the fore, which seek to approximate the efficiency and smoothness of the Super-Six principle.

Nothing has been produced to touch its value and price advantage. It is still the master car in performance and reliability.

$1095 and up at factory

Your present car will probably cover the entire first payment. The H. M. C. Purchase Plan offers the lowest terms available on the balance.

And Hudson still is alone in offering the almost individual distinction of such wide color choices, at no extra cost. See and examine the new offerings of other makers by all means. Then come, compare and drive the Greater Hudson. You, too, must feel the spontaneous enthusiasm that has rolled up a landslide approval for its beauty, quality and value—expressed in sales that for the first seven months of 1929 exceed the total of the entire year preceding.

A Cool and Dainty Frock For a Tiny Tot.

The pattern is cut in 3 sizes: 1, 2 and 3 years. To make a 2 year size will require 1¼ yard of 32 inch material. To finish neck and armscye edges with bias binding will require 1½ yard 1½ inch wide. One yard of ribbon is required for bows on the shoulders as illustrated.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

TWEED IS THE SALT IN THE FASHIONABLE DIET

New York—Curiously enough, since the world of dress has gone feminine, mannish fabrics such as tweed have never occupied a more enviable position. Just as one can hardly imagine a crepe de chine-less existence, so it has come to pass that one cannot quite see how a tweed ensemble can be omitted if one is to get through the new season in anything like the correct manner.

There are so many occasions for which tweed and only tweed is appropriate—for traveling for instance, and for the general utility sort of coat or costume in which one drives in all sorts of weather, markets in all sorts of seasons, or soberly goes about the business of the day.

While once the tweed suit was completed by a knitted jumper or sweater, it now so far unbends as to be seen about with a satin blouse one minute and a jersey the next. Wool with wool is a most usual combination, a lighter sleeve being the usual preference for the tuck-in. Abbreviated overblouses are of course still being selected, for while the tuck-in is new and smart, it is not essential that the blouse should hide under the waistband although it does give an excellent reason for wearing a belt. The new sets are quite stunning enough to tempt even women who have no earthly excuse to accent their waistline.

One of the chief blessings of the tweed ensemble is that its coat may usually be worn separately and its skirt may play many parts. That the coat may be fur lined is good to know with winter rushing upon us, but that it may also be without fur even on its collar is something to rejoice over at the moment.

Women May Join Dairy League

Problem of Women's Association Brought Before Session of Dairymen's League—Output Almost Double That of Last Year.

Representatives from four of the nine Ulster county locals of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association met at the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church today in an all-day session to discuss problems relative to the organization's locals.

The morning session opened with reports from Plattekill, Gardiner, Kingston and New Paltz. All reported that milk conditions this fall were favorable and that the amount of output this year was almost double that of the year before.

Mrs. Hope Brown Minor, head secretary of the league, brought the problem of a women's association before the meeting. She explained that this home department was not to be an individual organization, but was to be a part of the whole. "We are all looking out for our own interests, trying to better our home standard and make the most of our business. The women can be of aid in this, and for that reason it is well to include them in the organization."

"The women can sell the organization. They can promote our system of cooperative marketing and pools as well as the men, and often they have more to say about the signing of contracts than the men. They can become an essential part of the league and it behooves you men to take them to your meetings and explain the league to them," she said.

Asked just what the league was doing besides the selling of the farms produce, Mrs. Minor said that speakers were interesting school children in drinking a quart of milk a day, not only because it is healthy for them but because it will be a place of consumption when the slack season of the year comes. She stated that the dairymen were over-doing the production end and were not paying enough attention to the selling of their produce. To aid in the selling the league has established poster systems and speakers to educate people to drink more milk, she said.

Millard Davis, president of the Ulster county association, said that he favored interesting the women in the problem and ideals of the association, and that he favored preparing for a more active league for Ulster county in the future. Mr. Davis presided over the morning session.

General discussion of dairy problems, the meaning of the league and plans for the future were discussed, and the group adjourned for dinner.

The afternoon program was to have consisted of speeches by Mrs. Minor and other persons holding offices in the league.

About the Folks

Society Notes

Eedston-Herrington.

(Special to The Freeman.)

New York, Sept. 24.—Mrs. Edith Herrington, 28, formerly of Rhinebeck, N. Y., but at present of 2 Adrian avenue, New York, and Jules W. Redston, 45, an interior decorator of 25 Prospect street, New Rochelle, obtained a marriage license at the Municipal Building here yesterday. They will be married in New York this month. The bride-elect, who was born in Rhinebeck, the daughter of Andrew and Katherine D. Grunke, has been a widow since 1918. Mr. Redston's former wife died in 1918. He was born in Germany.

Feldmann-Peck

A very pretty home wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Peck of East Kingston, Saturday, September 21, at four o'clock, when their daughter, Bessie, became the bride of Edward H. Feldman of Newark, N. J. The officiating minister was the Rev. Robert Baines, pastor of the East Kingston M. E. Church. The bride was attired in gold colored satin and carried a boquet of white roses. The attendants were Mrs. Jack Bigler, a cousin of the bride, and Kenneth Peck, brother of the bride. After a brief honeymoon they will reside in East Kingston. The young couple have the well wishes of a host of friends.

Kearney-Zeeh.

St. Peter's Church was the scene of a pretty autumn wedding this morning when Miss Anna Margaret Zeeh, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Zeeh, became the bride of Thomas J. Kearney of this city. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John P. Neumann and was followed by a nuptial Mass. Seated within the chancel was the Rev. Joseph Huband. The bride was charming gowned in a royal blue chiffon velvet dress with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. She was attended by her niece, Miss Hazel Zeeh, who wore brown georgette with hat to match and carried sweetheart roses. The groom was attended by Joseph R. Zeeh, a nephew of the bride. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served and Mr. and Mrs. Kearney left by automobile for a tour of Canada and other points of interest. On their return they will reside at No. 41 West Union street. Both are popular young people and have the well wishes of a wide circle of friends.

Gets Rank of Major General.

Washington, Sept. 25 (AP).—A favorable report on the nomination of Brigadier General Lytle Brown as chief of army engineers with the rank of major general was voted today by the Senate military committee.

Daylight Saving Time

Summer time, says a correspondent in the Edinburgh Dispatch, is not an institution of yesterday nor of man. For verification of this refer to the Bible—Isaiah, chapter 38, verse 8. The verse is as follows: "Behold, I will bring again the shadow of the degrees, which is gone down in the sun dial of Ahaz, ten degrees backward. So the sun returned ten degrees, by which degrees it was gone down."

Diplomatic Composer

Dom Luiz, king of Portugal, fancied himself a singer; and when Rossini was his guest he asked if he might sing for the great composer.

Rossini agreed, of course, but he found the royal voice very poor.

When asked by a courtier for his opinion of the king's singing, Rossini deftly replied: "Never have I heard a king sing better."—Scrap Book.

I., and three daughters, Mrs. Nellie Ostrander of West Park, Mrs. Ruth Warren of Milton and Mrs. Frank Mingey of Bayonne, N. J. Funeral services were held today from the late home in Highland with interment in the Lloyd cemetery.

PHOENICIA.

Phoenicia, Sept. 24.—Miss Frances Hill left Wednesday by bus for East Branch where Mrs. Elsie Shultz met her and drove to her home in Hancock. The next day they left for a trip to Canada, where they will visit many places before their return trip begins. They will make the trip part by train and part by bus, which enables them to stop off at various places in New York state before reaching the Canadian line. Harriet Loomis is filling Miss Hill's place in the post office during her absence.

The Tyler lunch room has been discontinued.

C. Yerry runs a car to take the Woodland children to school here.

Loren Bell left for Utica, where he will spend some time with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Fredericks have closed their bungalow and have returned to the city for the winter.

Pone Grove House will remain open during the month of October.

Loren Bell has gone to Utica, where he will visit relatives.

Miss Aleen Schwarzwaelder has entered Kingston Hospital to take up trained nursing. She spent Sunday at home.

L. Wright is enclosing his spacious porch in glass, which will make a dandy sun parlor.

Friends of F. Mills of Stamford were glad to get a glimpse of him again as he went by on the train en route to Poughkeepsie.

Miss Thelma Evans, who spent some time here, returned to her home in Roosevelt, L. I.

Miss Lorna Van DeMark, who spent some time at Stamford, is now in Kingston for a while.

C. Short, Arthur and Kenneth enjoyed a trip to New York recently and visited relatives in Flushing, L. I.

The Elvy place near the school house is for rent.

Lawyer Dibble and family returned to Tannersville Sunday evening.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 25 (AP).—The reaction in stock prices continued today with most of the leaders touching new lows on the current decline. High-priced specialties and public utilities broke 5 to nearly 20 points, with scores of other issues down 2 to 4 points below yesterday's final quotations.

Operators for the advance made several efforts to bring about a general rally but they were forced to abandon their plans when large offerings of popular stocks poured into the market.

Call money renewed at 8 per cent, advanced to 9 and thence to 10 to the accompaniment of a heavy calling of loans. The stringency was believed due, in part, to the withdrawal of foreign balances in anticipation of an increase from 5½ to 6½ per cent in the Bank of England discount rate tomorrow. Time money ruled firm at 9 to 9¼ per cent.

Commercial solvents, which touched 700 only a few days ago, broke nearly 20 points to 620½. Johns Manville dropped 13 points, Westinghouse Electric 11, American and Foreign Power 10½ and Air Reduction 10¾.

Extreme declines of 5 to 9 points were recorded by Worthington Pump, Detroit Edison, International Telephone, Auburn Auto, Otis Elevator, American Water Works, United States Industrial Alcohol and Atlas Powder.

Rails declined with the Industrials despite the excellent character of the current earnings statements and rumors of higher dividends by several carriers before the end of the year. Atchison, Pere Marquette, Union Pacific, New York Central and Chesapeake and Ohio all sold down 5 to 6 points.

Quotations given by Parker McElroy & Co., members N. Y. Stock Exchange, 120 Broadway, New York city, branch office, Stuyvesant Hotel.

$2,500 A MO. TO "COOPERATE" WITH SHIPPING BOARD.

Washington, Sept. 25 (AP).—Henry C. Hunter, Counsel for the National Council of American Shipbuilders, said today that William B. Shearer had been sent to Washington in 1926 by American shipbuilders to "cooperate" with the Shipping Board in the formulation of a merchant marine legislative program.

Hunter said for the Washington assignment Shearer was to receive $2,500 a month. Shearer, he added, proposed to undertake a publicity campaign on behalf of merchant marine, the campaign to consist of a series of addresses and the preparation of articles.

He testified Shearer had represented himself as a member of the staff of the New York Commercial, and had told him that the "columns of that paper" would be open to his work.

Hunter said he declined to enter into an agreement then with Shearer.

Abolish All Religious Holidays.

Moscow, Sept. 25 (AP).—All religious holidays, including Sundays, are abolished under the new 24-hour system of labor introduced throughout the Soviet union. Details of the arrangement were published today for the first time. Workers in virtually every department of the community are given a day of rest every five days. The new system, which is intended to hasten the process of industrialization, increase productivity and relieve unemployment, provides for a continuous 24-hour working day. While one set of employes is resting another group will be actively at work, thus ensuring an "endless chain" of labor day and night.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press.)

Changsha, China—Girls whose sleeves and skirts are too short are to be put in the hoosegow. Chow An-Han, commissioner of public safety, intends to see to it personally that all women of the city dress after the fashion of their ancestors. Those who insist on introducing occidental fashions will be kept in special detention quarters till they see the error of their ways.

Atlantic City, N. J.—Evelyn Nesbit testified in court that a $600 check she had indorsed was returned by the bank. Counsel for Miss Charlotte Calegarde argued she was unwilling to pay $600 for four quarts of champagne in Miss Nesbit's club and stopped payment on the check. Now the grand jury is to look into the matter.

Berlin—It looks like self service for beer. A strike of 18,000 waiters next Monday threatens to force thirsty folks to carry their own mugs.

Kilios, Turkey—It is uncertain whether Mustapha Kemal had the advantage of a weather forecast, but he is in strong with some Moslem fundamentalists here. There was a long drought. Orders came by wire one night from the capital for everybody to go to the mosques and pray for rain. The next morning there was a deluge.

Philadelphia—In order to get a sun bath push a button. Such is the possibility held forth by Matthew Luckiesh of Cleveland, illuminating engineer, from a fountain of health that sparkles in a small electric globe he has devised. It floods homes and offices with ultra violet rays.

Paris—The Moulin Rouge is passing. The famous music hall with the big red windmill is to be turned into a cinema.

Berlin—Wherever American corsets, chewing gum or what not is sold in this town it is the fashion of storekeepers to hang out an American flag.

New York—Two of the largest apartment homes in the world are to be built for Hugh B. Baker, banker. He has bought the thirteenth, fourteenth and penthouse floors of a new Fifth avenue building. Estimates are that the two homes will cost $1,500,000. They will have a garden 53 by 69 feet and a hall 68 feet long.

Saint Brieuc, France—Two Parisian motorists found here that rabbits, attracted and dazzled by headlights at night, often ran into the wheels and were killed. The gendarmes, believing the motorists were deliberately getting thrills, pinched them under a law of 1844, which prohibits hunting out of season with guns or prohibited engines. The motorists are appealing the case on the ground that automobiles had not been invented in 1844.

Complete Plans For Valley Dinner

An important meeting of the committee in charge of arrangements for the dinner of the Rondout Valley Chamber of Commerce was held at the Governor Clinton hotel Tuesday evening. Details of the big dinner to be held at the hotel at 7:30 October 1 were practically completed and there were further pleasing indications that the affair will be very largely attended.

Among those present from up the valley were Secretary H. J. Levine and Harry Rosenstock of Ellenville and Coroner Howard B. Humiston of Kerhonkson. Chairman Morton Lown of Kingston presided at the meeting.

Reports showed that many reservations for the dinner had already been received, but it was also noted that many who intend to be present had not yet notified the committee. It was emphasized that reservations should be made on or before Saturday, September 28, as Manager Gross must have time to prepare for such a large gathering.

Those intending to be present at this noteworthy gathering should at once notify Morton Lown, chairman, Albert N. Cook secretary, of the Kingston committee; Dr. W. N. Thayer, president, Napanoch, or H. J. Levine, secretary, Ellenville, of the Rondout Valley Chamber of Commerce. Or tickets may be secured at the desk at the Governor Clinton Hotel and from members of the committee. Tickets are $1.50 a plate, are for sale to the general public and the ladies are invited.

The list of speakers is a pleasing one. The main addresses of the evening will be made by Supreme Court Justice Daniel V. McNamee and John T. Loughran of Fordham University Law School. Dr. W. N. Thayer will preside and guests will be welcomed by Mayor Dempsey of Kingston.

Estimates were made Tuesday evening that as many as 150 guests would be present from points up the valley.

BELIEVE WATCHMAN WAS VICTIM OF TORTURE

New York, Sept. 25 (AP)—A watchman at a lower east side laundry was found dead early today, believed by the police a victim of torture by robbers who sought to learn from him the combination of the office safe.

The palms of both hands had been slashed. A chair in front of the safe indicated he had been forced to sit there while his captors tried to force him to reveal the combination. Apparently failing in their efforts, they stabbed him in the back. The man was about 50 years old and identified only as Friedman. A bag of burglar tools was found, but the safe remained unopened.

Quinn Is a Pitcher of Curves

Philadelphia, Sept. 25 (AP).—John Picus Quinn, the grand old man of the Athletics' pitching staff, whose claim to seniority of the whole team is disputed only by Connie Mack and Kid Gleason, is a pitcher of many curves but few words.

Only Jack knows how old he is and he will not tell. The records show that he was pitching and getting paid for his efforts the year Gordon Cochrane was born and three years before Jimmy Foxx discovered his toes.

Baseball books have to put down a year of birth to complete the record, so the statistics list Quinn at 44. Opposing batsmen scoff at this. "How," they ask, "could any man grow as wise as Jack Quinn in a mere 44 years?"

Jack is one of the last of the baseball Mohicans in that with a few of his old cronies who were throwing spitballs before the moist delivery was legislated out of the game, he is permitted to continue the style. One can count them on the fingers of one hand now. Red Faber, Lefty Clarence Mitchell, Burleigh Grimes and the grand old man himself.

Quinn's last ball of 20 years ago has passed and his change of pace now consists of a slow ball and "medium speed." He keeps the spitter in reserve for the "crunches" and as a constant threat. Players on the other clubs say that he does not throw a spitter every time he puts his glove to his mouth, but they never know when the vexing delivery is coming up.

"Do you expect to start a game in the series?" he was asked.

"Don't know."

"If you do, will you get a big thrill out of it?"

"Just a game."

"You have pitched before in the world's series?"

"Yes."

No other questions seemed likely to provoke more extended answers so Jack was abandoned as a promising subject for an interview.

His last world's series appearance was with the Yankees in 1921, when he was defeated, but he is a better pitcher now than he was then. He won only eight games that season and he has already been credited with 11 victories in 1929.

Quinn is only a part of the great pitchers' name. His real name is John Quinn Picus, but what is a name to a pitcher who has the curves of the grand old man.

It All Depends On Pat Malone

Chicago, Sept. 25 (AP).—A man who never loses his temper is endeavoring to teach that rare art of human conduct to one of the most temperamental pitching stars of baseball. If he succeeds, he believes his team will be the new world's champion.

Manager Joe McCarthy of the Cubs is the teacher. His pupil is Pat Malone, a fiery, husky Irishman who is invincible when calm, and ineffective when angry.

There is no secret about McCarthy's world series plans for Malone. He wants him in the box for the first game and for another if he comes through. Seemingly it all depends on Pat.

Temperament has been Malone's almost destructive ailment since he came into baseball. Years ago he failed in a try out with the Giants and then slumped badly to start off with the Cubs at the beginning of the 1928 season until he managed to forget about umpires' decisions and fans' razzing. This season, however, he has been successful, winning 22 games and losing nine.

Malone, who is just 27, possesses probably the fastest ball in the Major League hurling ranks, including Dazzy Vance of Brooklyn.

He mingles a good curve with his fast ball and has 154 strikeouts to his credit this year—36 more than the Dazzler. Repeatedly he has had a game on ice waiting for the frosting, only to become so disturbed over a decision that he loses control.

With the fall classic a fortnight away, Malone is the one big ray of sunshine in the Cubs' pitching staff. Except for Charlie Root, the others have been unsteady lately and McCarthy is not a little apprehensive about their condition.

Guy Bush has been batted out of the box on six successive occasions; Sheriff Blake still is in the no-control slump he has experienced most of the season; Hal Carlson, a slow ball pitcher, who may cause the Athletics trouble, has a lame arm, while Artie Nehf, an experienced world series performer, seems to have lost his former cunning.

Sport Slants

By Alan J. Gould,
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

When you consider that Connie Mack was piloting the Athletics to their first American League pennant in 1902, before any one of his present-day "Big Three" — Cochrane Foxx and Simmons—was born, you have some idea of what it means to the old master to lead the big parade again 15 years after he ripped apart one of the greatest baseball machines of all time.

When you also realize that Mack will guide his "boys" in the world's series battle that starts October 8 at Chicago, where the Athletics of 1910 put the skids under another great Cub team, you may also realize a few of the emotions that stir the competitive spirit of the 66-year-old dean of strategists.

Generations of ball-players, all-time stars such as Cobb and Speaker, have come and gone while Mack has stuck to the helm of the Philadelphia craft, winning seven pennants over a period stretching from 1902 to 1929.

Baseball men think of John Picus Quinn, dean of the Athletics' pitching staff, is an old man. At 44 or thereabouts he is the oldest major leaguer in active service but Quinn was a callow youth of 17, twirling in the coal regions of Pennsylvania, when Mack's famous score-card was signalling to such great moundsmen as Eddie Plank and Rube Waddel, with the 1902 champions.

At about the same time, the left-handed tendencies of Robert M. Grove, aged 2, and George Walberg, aged 3, were being noted for the first time, although it would no doubt have been a severe shock to their parents to be advised by some soothsayer they would later be compared with Plank and Waddell.

The east had more than average share of the great ballplayers of 1928 with Cagle, Harpster, Strong, Scull and others in the All-American spotlight. Of this quartet, Cagle of the Army alone is back for another campaign but a few of those worth observing will be Marsters of Dartmouth, Wittmer of Princeton, Opekun of Pennsylvania and Ellis of Yale.

Al Marsters galloped all over the premises for Dartmouth as a sophomore in 1927. I saw him run a great Yale team ragged one afternoon that season and outshine any individual on a field where Bruce Caldwell was doing his stuff for Old Eli. Injuries cramped Marsters' style last fall. He never struck top stride. This year he is being drilled to hold down the quarterback post and, barring mishaps, should furnish some of the main thrills the gridiron has to offer. He does everything and does it well.

Walker to Defend Title.

San Francisco, Sept. 25 (AP).—Ancil Hoffman, promoter, announced here today that Mickey Walker would defend his middleweight title in Los Angeles October 29 against the challenge of Ace Hudkins, Nebraska wildcat, who last night won the right to meet the champion by registering a technical knockout victory over Joe Anderson of Kentucky.

Wins Third Money.

The Buccaneer, bay stallion, owned by John J. Cuneo, of this city, got third money in the 2:15 trot at the Cobleskill fair on Tuesday. The purse was $500. Miss Harry J. S., a bay mare, won three straight heats, time being 2:12½, 2:14½, 2:19½.

Tagging Major League Bases

(By William J. Chipman, Associated Press Sports Writer.)

With the attention of fans and players alike centered upon Miller Huggins' fight for his life in New York Hospital, a solemn tone was evident along the big league trail yesterday as the afternoon's program was unreeled. Melvin Ott of the Giants and the veteran Tom Zachary of the Yankees shared such spotlight as there was, Ott with his forty-first and forty-second home runs and Zachary with his twelfth victory in a season which has brought him no defeats.

Ott slashed a ball into the right field seats in each of two games at the Polo Grounds, and his drives were instrumental in bringing the Giants home in front in both encounters with the Boston Braves by 5 to 4 and 6 to 5. The two blows enabled the young New York outfielder to tie the National League record made by Rogers Hornsby in 1922 when the Rajah won the major league crown with 42 home runs. That was the year Ruth was suspended for the first five weeks of the season because of an unauthorized barnstorming trip the previous fall.

Carl Hubbell just shaded the veteran Harry Seibold in the opener, but McGraw was forced to employ both Carl Mays and Joe Genewich to earn the second. The Giants made five errors in the nightcap. Ben Cantwell toiled for Boston.

The Phillies rallied sharply against Johnny Morrison in the eighth to pull out a decision over Brooklyn by 8 to 6 in a slambang game. Chick Hafey again pulled his home run act with Jim Bottomley on base, and as a result the Cardinals outpointed Red Lucas and the Cincinnati Reds by 3 to 1. It was Hafey's twenty-seventh. Wild Bill Hallahan pitched for St. Louis.

Pittsburgh and Chicago were not scheduled.

The Yankees went to Boston yesterday to open a brief and inconsequential series. The fallen champions won from the Bostonese by 5 to 3 before a crowd of 8,500 fans celebrating the Hub's annual "Babe Ruth Day." The Babe failed to get a homer, despite a plea from the crowd to Boston pitchers to "let him hit it." He did, however, get a single and a double.

The victory not only added a twelfth triumph to Zachary's perfect record, but also placed him one game farther ahead of any winning mark ever made by a pitcher performing regular or semi-regular service. Zachary probably will not pitch again this year, and if not, will enter the record books as the only regular major league hurler to go through a campaign undefeated.

When Willis Hudlin faltered against Ted Lyons and the White Sox in the ninth round at Cleveland yesterday, Wes Ferrell rushed to the rescue and the Indians won by 7 to 4. Arthur Herring pitched Detroit to a 9 to 4 victory over the Browns at Navin Field. Alvin Crowder was his victim.

The Athletics and the Senators had an open date.

German Has System to Take Poison From Drugs

Hamburg, Germany.—Prof. Hans Much, director of the University Institute for Tubercular Research, is said to have discovered a method of extracting poison from morphine and similar drugs without lessening their medicinal value.

Record Family.

London.—The Smith family of Egham isn't just another family. It lays claim to being the tallest Smith family in the world. The father is six feet, the mother almost the same height and the only daughter, Ruby, is six feet three inches and can lift a nine-gallon cask of beer. Three boys in the family are all over six feet.

Betting Odds Favor Sharkey

New York, Sept. 25 (AP).—Tommy Loughran, pride of the Pennsylvanians, and Jack Sharkey, the Boston belter, moved into New York today for the final outdoor heavyweight boxing bout in the metropolitan district this season.

Heavier than ever before, the former king of the light heavyweights eagerly sought the opportunity of showing his wares against Sharkey. The loquacious tar was equally anxious to get his gloves on the debonair Loughran, who he freely asserts is one fighter made to his very order. The entire matter will be threshed out over the fifteen round route tomorrow night in the Yankee Stadium.

Victory will have more than ordinary significance to both battlers, since Phil Scott, the massive Briton, silenced for the time being at least the powerful guns of Victoria Campolo. The stage now is set for a three-cornered series, ending next winter on the sandy shores of Miami, between Scott, Max Schmeling and the winner of tomorrow night's rumpus, with the ultimate victor the successor to the retired Gene Tunney as heavyweight champion.

Betting odds favor Sharkey to accomplish the downfall of the Adonis of the Quaker City at a ratio of about 6 or 7 to 5. Indications were that these odds would hold at ringtime.

Having watched Loughran cut a victorious swathe through the 175-pound division the experts can't seem to see how the Philadelphian's light punches are going to stand off the rushes of the heavyweights who don't hit so often, chiefly because they don't have to.

These same experts figure that Sharkey will batter Loughran about the body in the early rounds and then finish him when Tommy has lost his speed.

Another school of expert thought, however, recalls the fact that the light heavyweights for years have tried to slow Loughran down with body punches. Leo Lomski, the punishing hitter from Aberdeen, Wash., had Loughran on the floor twice but the then light heavyweight champion got up to dance and box his way to a decision victory.

Against the slugger, Jimmy Braddock, Loughran gave a masterful boxing exhibition that amazed the critics and so bewildered Braddock that he scarcely landed a telling blow in a 15-round titular bout.

Tales from Harvey's Lake, where Loughran trained, said Tommy had found a punch with the extra poundage he is carrying these days. But if the Philadelphian does otherwise than box with Sharkey there will be considerable surprise on the listic rialto.

WARN OF COUNTERFEIT WORLD SERIES TICKETS.

Philadelphia, Sept. 25 (AP).—Learning that World Series tickets were reported being sold at scalper prices in Chicago even before the genuine tickets have been printed, officials of the Athletics today warned fans against buying counterfeit tickets here. Series tickets, it was said, have not been received from the printers.

When bleacher seats go on sale here early on the morning of October 11 the opening day of the Philadelphia games, it was intimated that police would be detailed at ticket offices to chase purchasers into the park at once to prevent the buyer from becoming a seller.

All the reserved seats for the Philadelphia games were disposed of in a single day's mail business here a week ago, but distribution will not begin until October 1.

Speed Is the Cry At West Point

New York, Sept. 25 (AP).—Speed and more speed is the cry at West Point, where Head Coach Biff Jones is developing what he hopes will be one of the strongest football teams in the country this season.

While most other eastern college squads were drilling on funda mentals or running through formations for use in Saturday's opening games, Jones took time yesterday to experiment with his backfield so as to get a little more speed.

Two track men, Green and Stuart, were shoved into the backfield. Green, who won two first places in the Penn relays last spring, went to Murrel's place at fullback, and Stuart, who has earned his letter as a sprinter, replaced O'Keefe at halfback. It was hardly believed that the shift will be permanent or even semi-permanent, but Jones may find numerous spots in Army's tough schedule where Green and Stuart will be valuable.

A revolt of Boston University over the training table price question ended when the athletic commission agreed to reduce the price of meals from 35 cents to 20. Members of the football squad had said they would refuse to play against the Army on Saturday unless their training table demands were met.

Elsewhere on the eastern front there was little action. Princeton, Harvard, Yale, Dartmouth and New York University all abandoned scrimmage for the day and spent the afternoon drilling on kicking, passing, tackling and signals. Coaches at these schools seemed to think their charges were entitled to a bit of a rest after the past week's gruelling scrimmages.

Cleo O'Donnell selected a Holy Cross varsity squad of 36 to sit at the training table, with 15 backs, three centers, six guards, six tackles and six ends. Nine of the squad are sophomores.

Coach Charlee Crowley was much encouraged by the work of his Columbia backfield in a practice scrimmage with Manhattan College.

Yale to Play New Brand of Football

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 25 (AP).—Yale football has not followed the sartorial trend of some of its sister institutions and will stick to the subdued blue of other years in its uniforms, but the resemblance of the old days may end there. Certainly if the Elis' opponents do not force a recount Yale this season will play a new brand of football.

A week's practice has first shocked and then encouraged Yale supporters. The sight of blue backs spinning like tops on pivot plays, backs out just inside or outside the ends and the other modern developments of an ancient game seem strange on Yale fields. The coaches, however, believe the new style will yield more touchdowns than the old.

Rear Coach Mal Stevens is still conservative even if his football has become radical. He refuses to suggest that a great season lies just ahead, but certainly he seems contended with the progress thus far made.

The four first string backs who are bearing the brunt of the intensive instruction accompanying the new formations seem to fit into the scheme of things. Albie Booth, freshman star of last year is a fragile piece of football bric-a-brac, but he can run with the ball and kick in any style if occasion demands. The other backs, Bob Wilson, Dunn and Miller, are sturdy. Miller scaling well into the heavyweight class. Wilson occupies the quarterback position and Booth and Dunn are called halves, with Miller at full, although at practice Dunn seems to be about as much at fullback as at half.

Art Palmer, much rangier in build than Freddy Loeser, has been installed at center, with Loeser moving to guard to act as running mate for Captain Firpo Greene. Marting and Vincent, the baseball star, will do a lot of playing at tackle. Hickok, boasting a great football name, and Walker, probably will star at the ends.

Yellow Jackets Choose Hoffman

Joie Hoffman, one of Kingston's best all-around athletes, proved his popularity with others of this city's sport circles Tuesday evening, when he was chosen to captain the Yellow Jacket football team for the second consecutive season.

Hoffman was chosen by the Yellow Jacket squad after it had gone through a signal drill at the Athletic Field under the direction of Coaches Carl Preston and "Watts" Wheeler. This lightning backfield man made an excellent field pilot last season and his experience presages that he will be even more valuable in the position this year.

The Yellow Jackets are "snapping into it" with great interest and will be ready to play a sterling brand of ball when the gridiron season opens here on Sunday, October 6. They have not started any scrimmage yet, but their light drills are preparing them for the "rough 'em up" end of the game, which likely will be the order of practices next week.

Those interested in the home eleven will be able to see them shape up at practice sessions every night this week at the Athletic Field. Six o'clock is the starting time.

Roamers to Meet Friday.

A meeting of the Roamers' Basketball team will be held Friday evening at eight o'clock at the home of "Dub" Raichle, 632 Broadway.

WHY WE DO IT

Why We Follow Suggestions

By MEHRAN K. THOMSON, Ph. D.
Author of "The Springs of Human Action"

WE FOLLOW a suggestion because it offers the line of least resistance. It is like rowing downstream. We save time and energy by letting someone else do the thinking and planning and worrying.

The ability to act on suggestion is very useful in times of danger. We act very quickly at the slightest suggestion of harm without stopping to investigate the truth of the alarm. The slightest hesitation may prove disastrous. Perhaps this is how the trait originated and then spread to other things by the force of habit.

We follow the advice and suggestions of the doctor, the lawyer and other experts because they know more about their respective fields than we do. We have confidence in their ability and honesty. For the same reason children are much more suggestible than adults. They have confidence in their elders, especially their parents, who seem so wise and know everything. The child naturally follows the example of those whom he admires and we are all children in this respect.

Since there are so many things we must accept on suggestion on the authority of another, we get the habit and follow in matters that we could easily check up if we were not so lazy.

This habit of accepting everything we see or hear as gospel truth is responsible for our being taken in frequently by unscrupulous politicians and business sharks who paint glowing pictures and make all sorts of extravagant claims.

The direct and out and out suggestion put in the form of command is most effective with children and inferiors. Indirect suggestion which conceals the true motive is most effective with equals because the direct command is likely to raise antagonism and a counter suggestion in the opposite direction will be the result.

To a superior, the most effective suggestion is put in the negative form, as though you expect to be refused. You say to the boss: "I don't suppose you would accept a ride in my tin Lizzie." In this way you avoid counter suggestions on his part and save your own respect in case you are turned down because you have provided for that emergency. In fact you have suggested it yourself.

DR. DORAN SAYS BUSINESS LEADERS ARE INCONSISTENT.

Indianapolis Ind., Sept. 25 (AP)—Dr. James M. Doran, Federal Commissioner of Prohibition, today attacked as "inconsistent" business leaders who regard liquor drinking an evil for their employes but who feel the law should not interfere with their own drinking.

In an address prepared for delivery before the fifth annual convention of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union here, Dr. Doran said it was encouraging to note that among those prominent in business "there is a growing conviction that they have individual responsibility as leaders and the laws should be respected and observed in good faith by all alike."

Methodist Women Will Meet Here

The Sixtieth Annual Meeting of the New York Branch of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society to be Held October 1 to 4.

The sixtieth annual meeting of the New York Branch of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society will be held in St. James M. E. Church on October 1 to 4. There will be three daily sessions on Tuesday Wednesday and Thursday, closing with a missionary love feast on Friday morning, October 4. It is expected that over three hundred women delegates will attend the annual meeting.

The meeting opens Tuesday morning and all of the sessions of the annual meeting will be open to the public. Wednesday evening the young people's banquet will be held in the Fair Street Reformed Church followed by a young people's program in St. James M. E. Church when a pageant will be presented and an address given by Miss Alice Louise Smith, field secretary, of the young people's department.

Thursday morning the annual election of officers will be held followed by missionary addresses. There will be an interesting afternoon session and Thursday evening will be held the anniversary service with an address by the professor of systematic theology, Union Theological Seminary, Dr. William Adams Brown.

The annual session will close Friday morning with the missionary love feast.

TIME-PIECE INVENTED BY ALFRED THE GREAT

A replica of a time telling and lighting device, a product of the brain of Alfred the Great, England's first "time conscious" king, has been loaned to Safford and Scudder, jewelers, 310 Wall street, and is on display in their window.

The device consists of a small lantern, the sides being made of wood so thin that they are transparent, bone finished and highly carved. In the lantern is a candle marked with rings into twelve equal parts. Six of these candles would burn 24 hours. King Alfred in this way was able to make light serve as a means to tell time.

Dance at K. of C. Hall.

Present indications point to a large attendance at the informal dance of Court Santa Maria, No. 164, Catholic Daughters of America, Thursday night, September 26, at Knights of Columbus Hall, corner of Broadway and Andrew street. Music will be furnished by John P. Erne's orchestra from 9 to 12 o'clock.

Paint in a gallon can is far from paint on your house. Cheap paint only costs less per gallon, if you put it on you'll find it will cost more for the same amount of surface covered. S.W.P. (Sherwin-Williams Paint) will cover 1/6 to 1/3 more surface per gallon (360 sq. feet per gallon against 220-300 sq. feet).

Don't forget this when you purchase paint—the cost per gallon does not determine the cost per job and good paint will last years longer than so-called cheap paint.

Body and Engine by Pierce-Arrow—and Pierce-Arrow in every part!

A willingness to wait

America's Tribute to the New Pierce-Arrow Straight Eight

SINCE the hour when the first new Straight Eight was presented by Pierce-Arrow, there has never been a time when demand wasn't crowding production. For weeks and months it seemed impossible for certain models to catch up with orders.

$2775 TO $8260 AT BUFFALO

In purchasing a car from income the average allowance on a good used car usually more than covers the initial Pierce-Arrow payment

The tribute that is inherent in any waiting-list has a special significance where Pierce-Arrow's latest creation is concerned. It marks a new mode in motoring—a sharp departure from all that is bulky and stodgy in fine automobiles.

The new Straight Eight is a long, slender, low-swung automobile which is today unapproached in power, in performance, or in luxury of appointment. Besides, it is Pierce-Arrow at its very finest—which perhaps explains why America has been willing to wait for it.

BUSINESS STANDARDS KIWANIANS ARE PROMOTING.

Ideals.

Business should supply useful goods in an orderly manner for human needs at lowest cost. The production of material values is indispensable; the formation of human values should be equally compelling. To survive, business must gain a fair profit for commensurate service. To succeed, business should give added service for community enrichment.

The various professions afford opportunity to strengthen honorable and helpful human relationships, and all members of the professions should strive by example and influence to preserve the high standards of ethical conduct against the attacks of all mercenary and commercialized interests.

Application.

Honesty—Thou shalt not steal, either by old or new methods.

Kiwanis urges a keener sense of fundamntal honesty and a more courageous application of the Eighth Commandment to business and professional evils.

Kiwanis condemns the abuse of bankruptcy laws, cancellation of contracts without mutual consent, commercial bribery and misleading advertisements.

Fair Competition—Not merely the letter but the spirit of fairness.

Kiwanis should strive to eradicate not only those forms of unfair competition which have been branded unlawful but also those countless weapons of deception and injury which are so questionable as to conflict with the spirit of Kiwanis ideals.

Kiwanis specifically condemns such sharp practices as slandering competitors, hiring employes of a competitor to obtain trade secrets, price favoritism to special buyers, unfair disclosure of bids, glowing promises which cannot be fulfilled, and hidden defects in merchandise.

Law and Business—Higher standards mean fewer laws. Business and professional men should voluntarily develop and impose upon themselves standards of conduct which are above just criticism, which will stand the full light of publicity and will tend to avert oppressive legislation.

Business and professional men should observe existing laws, and where vicious practices persist, should support new legislation to protect society; they should exert only a wholesome influence upon lawmakers to the end that present harmful legislation be repealed and that fewer and better laws be enacted.

Impartial Arbitration—The court of first resort.

Kiwanis endorses both commercial and industrial arbitration in principle and urges business men to expand the types of disputes which they are willing to submit to such settlement.

Kiwanis supports the following constructive measures: The incorporation of arbitration clauses in contracts; the establishment and promotion of arbitration facilities; a readiness on the part of members to serve on arbitration committees; and when parties to the dispute, a willingness to abide by the decisions of the committee.

Improving Employment Relations—Emphasize the human factor.

Employment should be as nearly continuous as possible at wage rates which encourage efficiency and permit a rising standard of living.

Management should recognize labor's right to adequate working conditions, progressive methods of selection, training, supervision and promotion, and facilities to adjust grievances promptly.

Waste Reduction—A total asset; it has no liabilities.

Business itself should war against waste of human resources by the adoption of public and private health policies, accident prevention aids, and ways to create and improve industrial morale.

Material resources should be conserved by improving budgeting and cost accounting practices, by increasing operating efficiency, by enlarging fire prevention activities, by wise habits of consumption and judicious use of simplified and standardized practices.

Business Stabilization—Steadying prosperity by balanced production.

To smooth the ebb and flow of business requires self-restraint in pricing and profit-taking during boom times and careful gauging of consumer demand and production schedules.

Business men should encourage long range planning of public and private construction, wise control of credit against reckless speculative use and further research in business administration.

Realization.

The modern achievements of business and the professions are due as much to the realization of ethical standards as to mechanical efficiency. Progress compels constant revision of these standards—the continuous challenge of business and the professions to Kiwanis.

THIRD ANNUAL "KIWANIS KAPERS" TO BE THE BEST OF THE SERIES

Wonderful Cast of 110 Local Stars—Popular Business Men Kaper for the Benefit of Charity.

New York city has its annual showing of the "Follies", "Scandals" and "Vanities". Woodstock has its "Maverick" and Kingston has its "Kiwanis Kapers", the annual performance where our popular business men throw aside their business cares and worries and devote two weeks' time to preparing and staging a big musical comedy that will entertain about four thousand of their friends and bring together in a nice friendly way, the good folk of Kingston to be entertained by the finest talent in our city, talent that ranges from a clever pair of kiddies on up through the flapper age to our young married couples and even farther.

Knowing as they do that this "Kiwanis Kapers" has grown to be one of the big community enterprises of the year and that the proceeds will all be used to support the Kiwanis Club Clinic and Welfare Fund, the members of the Kiwanis Club and the large cast taking part in the "Kapers" have thrown themselves into the rehearsals for this big affair with a spirit that is both unusual and refreshing in this selfish age we are now living in.

Under the direction of Charles L. Adams, of the Harry Miller Producing Company of New York city, the rehearsals have been going on day and night at the Masonic Club, and even those who have seen the first and second edition of the "Kiwanis Kapers" are going to be amazed at this bigger and better third edition.

Fourteen scenes, each one brimming over with life and "pep" will make up this interesting progarm that will be offered with pride by the Kingston Kiwanis Club at the Broadway Theatre, Friday and Saturday night, Sept. 27 and 28.

Beautiful new scenery and costumes will brighten up each one of the scenes which will be run off with that snap and speed that marks the "Kiwanis Kapers" as the "so different" style of local talent production.

One of the most brilliant scenes in the show will be the very first act called "A Heart to Heart Talk With You" in which sixteen of the prettiest and most talented girls in Kingston will take part, assisted by eight keen and peppy young men. This act is too delicate and clever to be marred by the entrance of late comers, so the committee in charge have voted not to seat anyone during this short but entertaining scene. The curtain will rise promptly at 8:15 and from then on for two hours and twenty minutes mirth and melody will reign supreme.

It would be hard to pick out the most interesting acts as Director Adams has tried to put a little bit of everything into the program, everything from high class singing, beautiful solo and ensemble dancing, funny sketches, comedy songs, novel scenic effects, splendid ensemble chorus singing, in fact something to please the gay and serious alike. A careful reading of the complete program found elsewhere in this special edition of this paper will give the reader a fair idea of the good things in store for the fortunate seat holders.

The sale of reserved seats for this affair has been a record breaker for Kingston. The Kiwanis Club has built up a reputation in the last two years for putting on the biggest and best local talent show in Kingston and those who have missed them in the past seem determined to witness the year's presentation.

Only two performances will be given this year instead of three which means that seats will be at a premium before the curtain rises on the grand opening performance Friday night.

The big demand for seats has naturally been for the opening performance Friday night as everyone enjoys being in on that first presentation of a big show of this kind to catch that air of enthusiasm that always puts over an opening night with such a bang.

The Kiwanis Club is anxious that everyone in Kingston see their beautiful show, and have tried to keep the prices within the reach of all, so if you want to see the fastest, snappiest and most entertaining show to be presented in Kingston this season secure your seats early for this big "Kapers" which was made in Kingston, for Kingston people, to aid the unfortunates of Kingston.

HENRY S. JENNINGS

How Old Are You?

Life is not measured by years; but by deeds. Youth is not a time of life; it is a state of mind, a temper of will, the quality of imagination, a vigor of emotions, the freshness and sweetness of life.

Some never grow old as we count years, for courage and adventure, enthusiasm and cheerfulness, the spirit of hopefulness and the lure of wonder, keep life young, fresh and vigorous.

You do not grow old by living through the years. You grow old and wrinkled by losing your ideals, giving up hope, and looking through darkened glasses.

The things that age men and make hair white, and the skin wrinkled are worry, doubt, fear, despair, lost hope, and the inability to smile. These bow the back and make one aware of the creeping things we call years.

If you can keep alive in your heart the spirit of cheerfulness, the love of the wonderful, the sweet amazement of happy thoughts, the challenge of service, the lure of tomorrow and the joy of today, you will never grow old. Life will be young and fresh, sweet and wiasome; sunshine will play around your feet and rainbows will circle your horizon.—Dr. Robert H. McCaslin.

A Sure Winner.

Broker: "My dear girl, speculation on 'change is always a big risk—one gains one day and loses the other."

Dumb Dora—"Then, you silly old boy, it's easy. Only speculate every other day."

It Pays.

He rang in a little sooner
  Than the fellows in his shop;
And he stayed a little longer
  When the whistle blew to "stop"
He worked a little harder
  And he talked a little less;
He seemed but little hurried
  And showed but little stress,
For every little movement
  His efficiency expressed.

Thus his envelope grows, just
  A little thicker than the rest,
He saved a little money
  In a hundred little ways;
He banked a little extra
  When he got a little raise.
Now it's very little wonder
  That he murmurs with a smile,
As he clips his little coupons
  "Are the little things worth while."

With your car, existence is measured in mileage—determined by the kind of gasoline used. Silent miles, and many extra miles are necessary. With Keystone you get both. In addition you'll have added power and quicker response.

And it's anti-knock too. Reduces knocks over fifty per cent with an almost unbelievable increase in power. It's the kind of gas you've wanted—the kind it pays to buy. Try it—today—it's the one gasoline with all desired fuel qualities combined!

Kingston Kiwanis And How It Has Grown

Being a Brief But Interesting and Encouraging Story of the Organizing and Progress of the Kiwanis Club of Kingston, Its Activities and Its Aspirations.

It was shortly after the year 1921 had its beginning that Carl Lambert of Kiwanis International arrived in Kingston for the purpose of organizing a local Kiwanis Club. The first official duty of Mr. Lambert consisted of a call upon Judge Joseph M. Fowler, to whom he explained the ideals, motives and self-assumed duties of a Kiwanis Club. Those who knew "Joe" realize that it would have been impossible to have made a happier selection of the proper man to start the ball rolling. Judge Fowler realized the civic advantage that Kingston and Ulster county would derive from having such a local organization, and endorsed the plan.

On January 31st, 1921, ten men met at the Central Y. M. C. A. and listened to an outline of the ideals of Kiwanis. It is interesting to know that of these ten men, four, Judge Fowler, Dr. Frank L. Eastman, Arthur J. Burns, and William A. Van Valkenburgh are still functioning as active Kiwanians. A temporary organization was effected with Judge Fowler as chairman and William A. Van Valkenburgh as secretary and treasurer.

It was necessary to have fifty members before the club could be admitted to the national organization, and a charter secured. Each of the ten men present agreed to secure five members each within the succeeding few days. Within two weeks their efforts were successful, and application was made to Kiwanis International for a charter on March 17th, 1921. Arthur Burns was elected president and William A. Van Valkenburgh secretary for the year.

The application was promptly granted and on April 21st, 1921, the charter was presented to the new club by New York State District Governor R. A. Mansfield Hobbs. At the presentation large delegations were present from neighboring clubs, and representatives of the City of Kingston, the Chamber of Commerce, and the Rotary Club extended a welcome.

During the first year, joint meetings were held with the Rotary Club, the Chamber of Commerce, and the Kiwanis Clubs of Poughkeepsie and Newburgh. The completion of the organization of the new club constituted most of the work accomplished during the first two years. A start was made toward working with under-privileged boys of the county and some funds expended for families in distress and to provide toys for the poor children of the city at Christmas.

The president elected to succeed Arthur Burns was Roy M. Sutliff, who presided successfully during 1922, practically the same work being accomplished.

For the year 1923 Doctor Aden C. Gates was the presding officer. William A. Van Valkenburgh, who had remained secretary since the organization of the club, was succeeded in 1924 by W. F. Miller, and became president for the year 1924. After a few months Mr. Miller was succeeded as secretary by Robert J. Service.

It was during this year that the first attempt to accomplish something on a larger scale, resulted in the club bringing the Swarthmore Chautauqua to Kingston for a week. The proceeds derived from this were set aside for work in connection with under-privileged children.

The usual activities of raising funds for the Y. M. C. A., the Boy Scouts, and contributions for a Christmas party for the defective delinquents at Napanoch made up part of the program for the year 1924.

For the year 1925 Charles A. Lasher was elected president, Robert Service remaining as secretary. The Chautauqua was again brought to Kingston, and presented a week's program in August.

Milk was furnished to those children in the grade schools who had need of additional nourishment without being in funds to procure it. Medical attention, braces and appliances were furnished in a number of instances.

Other activities included helping in a drive for funds to erect the American Legion Memorial Building, and an expansion program for the Chamber of Commerce.

It was in July, 1925, that the club undertook its greatest piece of work since organization, by purchasing a camp site for the Ulster County Council, Boy Scouts of America. This property consists of twenty-five acres on the Wallkill River a few miles this side of New Paltz.

In 1926, Chester A. Baltz succeeded Charles A. Lasher as president, and R. Frederick Childsey took the place of Robert J. Service as secretary.

It was decided to undertake no special task during the year, so the Chautauqua was not presented that year, no other organization caring to assume the responsibility.

In April Robert J. Service donated two acres of land at Stone Ridge for reforestation by the Conservation Club of the Kingston High School, which program was carried out successfully.

One of the most important activities of the year was joining the Dairymen's League in a cooperative supper at New Paltz, the object of the meeting being to bring about a better spirit of understanding between the farmer and the city man.

The usual contributions were made for Christmas at the Napanoch Reformatory and the Salvation Army.

After the completion of The Governor Clinton Hotel, it was decided to hold the weekly luncheons there, instead of at the Y. M. C. A. where they had been held with few exceptions since organization.

1927 brought Dr. Julius I. Gifford the presidency, Fred Childsey being reappointed secretary. That year it was decided to bring Kiwanis Kapers to Kingston. This decision was arrived at after a large delegation from the local club attended the presentation of the show at Newburgh, and learned how popular it had been there for the past several years.

This was the biggest activity yet attempted by the club, and the results so successful that every member felt well repaid for his labors.

Clarence Rowland was elected president for 1928, which proved a very busy and successful year in many ways.

For the year 1929, Lucius Doty, vice-president of the Newcombe Oil Company was chosen President; R. Frederick Childsey of the Travellers Insurance Co. Vice-President; Rev. O. E. Brandorff, pastor of Redeemer Lutheran Church, Secretary; and J. Richard Shults, successor of McMillan Co. and Forsyth and Davis Paint Co., treasurer.

The club continued the furnishing of milk to several schools of the city; aid to several crippled and needy children; the building of a bungalow for the Y. M. C. A.; established a scholarship and is arranging to sponsor and equip a dental clinic for indigent children. For the continuance of such and similar work the repeating of the Kiwanis Kapers is again undertaken.

The Failure That Led to Success; How Kiwanis Came Into Existence—Its Rapid Rise.

Fifteen years ago two men, Allan S. Browne, a fraternal organizer, and Joseph G. France, a Detroit business man, decided to form a new fraternal order in Detroit. They soon discovered, however, that there was no room for a new club with fraternal principles. They were intent upon starting some kind of a club; so decided to organize a business men's club instead. This idea was received with much favor by citizens of Detroit. Mr. France became the first member while Donald A. Johnston became the first president.

The next problem was the choice of an attractive name. The organizers then asked C. M. Burton, historian of Detroit, to suggest a name. He consulted a dictionary of Indian words selecting among others the word "Kee-wanis". He changed the spelling to "Kiwanis". This word meant, "I make a noise", or as the Indian interpreted, "To make oneself known; to impress". This name was adopted.

Another problem at its organization was the drawing up of the objectives of the new club. The original purpose of the club was to encourage business men to lunch together weekly for the purpose of improving business relations between each other. The first motto selected was "We trade". As time went on the organization limited membership only to men of high social, business, and moral standing in the community. The organization, furthermore, began to take an active interest in civic affairs. Finally the motive of membership for personal profit dropped out completely and Kiwanis became an organization seeking to improve the social and community life which included considerable welfare work. It was six years after Kiwanis was organized that the motto was changed from "We Trade" to the present motto, "We Build".

If anyone is laboring under the impression that Kiwanis is simply a "knife and fork" club let him consider the objectives printed elsewhere and he will soon be convinced that Kiwanis is no mere jolly luncheon club but instead a tremendous movement for the uplift of humanity. If Kiwanis is merely a luncheon club it can not justify its existence in the presence of the many organizations already existing which are quite capable of providing for the social life of men.

Kiwanis should be viewed rather as a mighty force undertaking a task as gigantic as that of world peace. The task of the peace advocates is to disarm the nations of not only their instruments of destruction but beyond that to disarm them of the selfish ambitions for power and wealth that breed wars. So, in like manner, Kiwanis is undertaking the almost insuperable task of substituting the spirit of unselfishness for the age-old spirit of self-interest which has so long dominated human affairs.

Certain political parties and other organizations have been laboring to bring about justice to all, but Kiwanis goes further by seeking to bring about not merely justice but also brotherliness.

It is endeavoring to convince men that life is a sacred trust—not a selfish possession. It is seeking to convince men that the spiritual things of life can afford greater satisfaction than the material. It is laboring to convince men that he who would be greatest must be servant.

Kiwanis has no ambition of winning the nation into its organization but it is aiming to enlist every citizen to adopt the principles of Kiwanis.

In spite of the limitations of membership Kiwanis in fifteen years has grown to a body of over 103,000 with 1,825 clubs scattered throughout the United States and Canada.

During the past year the combined clubs completed 35,000 community tasks which included aid to business and industry; aid to students; assistance to needy, including relief work; athletics, including playgrounds; beautification of cities and environs, including the securing of parks and planting trees; Boy Scouts; boys' work in general, such as boys' camps, promoting boys' bands and choirs, supporting the Big Brother movement, cooperating with the juvenile and probation court, promoting boys' conferences and exhibits, sponsoring boys' clubs; Camp Fire Girls; Chambers of Commerce; charity organizations; citizenship; comfort to patients and institutions; community chest; conservation, development of better town and country relations; education work; Girl Scouts; girls' work; good roads; health and sanitation; hospitals; libraries; Salvation Army; the under-privileged child; vocational guidance and many other kinds of helpful activities too numerous to mention. The Kingston Club has participated in many of these activities.

The achievements of Kiwanis and other service clubs certainly justify their existence and deserve the heartiest encouragement of the citizenry.

In asking for the whole-hearted support of the city in the coming Kapers the local club has no selfish motive, for every cent of profit will be placed in the Welfare Fund with practically all of it to be used for local charity and civic improvement. Because of their eagerness to fill this welfare treasury the members are contributing many hours of labor. They are confident that as in past years the citizens will recognize their unselfish efforts by supporting the Kapers.

The Child—Give Him a Fair Chance.

By a Kiwanian.

The Kiwanis club of Kingston, in common with Kiwanis Clubs in many other places, has always had as its chief benefactor the helping of the underprivileged child. Kiwanis is, of course, not alone in this effort to aid the less fortunate for the opportunity presents an appeal which no one would want to refuse. The need and opportunity is, however, more apparent to some than to others. To the writer the adoption of Kiwanis of the particular objective was especially gratifying. One of the first facts brought to the attention of a judge of children's court is the fact that there are in the community scores of children who have not been given or are not being given a square deal.

Nature tries to give every child normal brains and a normally formed and a reasonably strong body. In many cases, through no fault of the child, nature is thwarted, the mind does not properly function, or unfortunate or criminal tendencies are transmitted from ancestors or some part of the body is not normally formed, or is weak. A few may say, let the doctrine of the survival of the fittest take care of such cases, but not many of us will subscribe to that theory and apply it in our own community.

Again every child is entitled to a father and mother, a father who is reasonably honest, generally sober and who will provide at least the necessities of life, and a mother who is at least decent, who has for him some real affection and who makes an effort to keep him clean. Many of us would be surprised if we knew how many children are today without such a father or mother.

Every child is entitled to a home—the size isn't important and the particular kind of furniture isn't essential, but the home should be fairly clean and warm in winter. Children who do not have such a home are more numerous than most of us realize.

Every child has a right to play, and a safe and healthy place in which to play, and while young some parental watchfulness and guidance. The young of the animal have such advantages, and young of the human often times lack them. As they grow older, the child is entitled to simple toys or the paraphernalia of sports, and he is entitled to an opportunity of playing with others of his years under conditions which will develop him along the right lines physically and morally; here, too, not a few children lose out.

What happens to such children? It is true that some grow up and become reasonably good citizens in spite of the handicaps, some are brought into children's courts as neglected children. Legal authority may force improved conditions; public agencies or private benefactions may make improvement possible, or those agencies or private benefactions may take hold of the case and make unnecessary the bringing of it into court. But many other children of the class mentioned, because of their handicaps, pass into the class of the delinquent child or the youthful criminals—if under sixteen we call him a delinquent and not a criminal. Workers among and with the defective and delinquent children and the young criminal will differ as to the percentage but all will agree that a large proportion of such are of those who did not have a fair break in some of the particulars mentioned in this article. It is no answer to say that sometimes those who have had good advantages go wrong, for such cases are rare by comparison.

Many times in passing sentences, in cases of youthful delinquents or criminals, the judge acts with great reluctance because the history of the case makes it so evident that the real blame and fault lies back of the crime and in the conditions and environment into which the boys or girls have been forced through no fault on their part. A strong swimmer may keep afloat with a considerable weight about his neck but unless he has unusual strength he goes down; so it is with many a child burdened with the handicaps.

If all the defects in the administration of criminal law could be corrected, if the punishment for crime be doubled and again doubled, our correctional institutions and prisons would still be full, but if organized society gave anything like the thought to and spent anything like the money on the under privileged children that it does on the detection, punishment and keeping of the delinquent and criminal, it is safe to say that the population of such institutions would be more than cut in half. The problem will never be fully solved but it will become less and less bothersome as we increase the percentage of children who are given a square deal and this can only be accomplished by making our people see the possibilities and importance of the work.

So Kiwanis, in taking as an objective the helping of a few of the underprivileged children, is doing really constructive work in the community.

It was a dear old lady's first ride in a taxi, and she watched with growing alarm the driver continually putting his hand outside the car as a signal to the following traffic. At last she became very angry.

"Young man," she said, "you look after that car of yours, and watch where you are going. I'll tell you when it starts raining."

Underprivileged Child From A School Health Viewpoint

WHY KIWANIS IS PLANNING TO OPEN A DENTAL CLINIC

One of the great projects of Kiwanis is to aid the underprivileged child of our community. It is in behalf of this project that Kiwanis stages its annual "Kapers". Some thoughtless and uninformed people may inquire as to the need, as to whether or not there are underprivileged children in our community who should be helped? In this regard, it may be truly said that one half does not know how the other half lives, and a little consideration of the problem would plainly demonstrate that there is a great necessity in our community for this work among the underprivileged children.

The most organized effort toward the promotion of Child Welfare is our Medical Inspection carried on by the Board of Education in our Public School System. The writer, as Medical Supervisor of this work is in a position to tell something about it, especially as to the conditions among our schiol children that the inspection discloses and which should be corrected.

The Medical Inspection in the schools is a recognition of the fact that health is a part of the educational program. It has to do with the promotion and preservation of the health of the school child. The inspection is charged with the duties of making physical examinations to discover the health assets and the health deficits of the child; with the control of the sanitation of the school environments; with the promotion of health education among teachers and scholars; and with the control of communicable diseases in the schools. In the main, the workings of the Medical Inspection are laid down by the law of the State of New York. The emphasis is upon the prevention rather than cure. As a matter of fact, there are numerous reasons why the Educational Authorities cannot undertake any curative work. It is here that other community and private agencies must step in to complete the work. It is in this regard that Kiwanis wants to do its part, and Kiwanis is planning to render the necessary aid to the underprivileged child in our School System.

Last year there was a total registration in the High School, and in the Public Schools of Kingston of about 4500. About 70% of the children were given physical examinations. The astonishing facts were disclosed that 80% of those examined showed one or more physical defects, and that only 20% were without any defects demonstrated by the examinations.

Lack of cleanliness of person was not considered a physical defect, but the inspection disclosed that there is plenty of opportunity and need of promoting this first essential of personal hygiene among some of our school children.

One tenth of the children examined showed defective vision, in many cases already corrected by glasses, in numerous instances never before discovered.

Over 700 cases of diseased tonsils were found, and in 247 cases orthopaedic defects, (curvatures of the spine and other bony abnormalities) were discovered.

In one tenth of the children examined, the weight was so far below what it should have been that a state of defective nutrition could be said to be present. Kiwanis is already doing something in this regard, supplying extra milk during the school session to the children whose parents cannot afford to make this possible for them.

Numerous cases of skin and other defects that reflect unsanitary and neglected surroundings were found.

And so we could go on down the line, listing abnormalities of heart, lungs, ears etc., that represent the physical defects, in most cases correctable, that our children suffer. It is not worth while, and does not the social conscience of the community demand that these conditions be corrected?

In most cases they will be corrected by merely drawing the matter to the attention of the wise and provident parents. In some cases, mainly due to economic reasons, outside aid has to be given to the family.

The growth of humanism is the outstanding development of the twentieth century. A community is judged by its organization for Public Health and Public Welfare. The present day social conscience is sufficiently awakened so that it will not tolerate conditions that were looked upon with equanimity a few years ago. Many of our preventive measures also have a dollar and cent as well as a social value. This is particularly so in guarding the health of our children.

Every child with a correctable defect that is uncorrected is really an underprivileged child who is deprived of his greatest asset in winning success in his life, his health.

In the great majority of cases the parents can afford, and will have the physical defects discovered in the medical inspection in schools corrected.

There always remains a minority of cases in which the parents would have the defects corrected but who are financially unable to do so. It is with this latter group that we are particularly concerned. It is a pity that their children should have to suffer because of conditions that they can not control.

The most astonishing number of defects discovered were those of the teeth. In this enlightened age it is unnecessary to point out the relation between teeth and our general health. The condition of the oral hygiene of our school children is not exaggerated when it is characterized as shocking and disgraceful. In over 1700 cases, or nearly 2-3rds of the children examined, defects of the teeth and gums were shown. It is so startling that it demands some organized effort on the part of the community to endeavor to correct this condition. It is foresighted and economical to do so. It is better all around to fix up the child's teeth now than to later on support an indigent cripple with chronic arthritis, or with any of the numerous other complications of neglected dental infections.

Kiwanis proposes to establish a Dental Clinic for the School System to promote dental hygiene, and to correct dental defects that would otherwise be uncorrected.

Kingston has other social needs, but probably none so pressing at the present time as this one. The community should aim at the ideal that every indigent person can easily obtain the treatment in which he stands in need. At the present time there are no free clinics or dispensaries in Ulster County except those conducted by the State of New York. In Kingston there are even no suitable accommodations to hold these clinics. Perhaps from this beginning of a dental clinic for the indigent school children progress will be made, and suitable facilities will be furnished, at least for those clinics that are already held here.

A successful Kiwanis Kapers will initiate this benevolent movement by making possible a Dental Clinic for our underprivileged school children.

Why The Service Clubs?

Rotary, Kiwanis, "Y's" Men's, the Lyons Club—are they not all glorified bunk? Is not the primal idea exclusiveness, mixed with a little snobbishness on the part of a few kindred, congenial souls, who once a week dine in an exclusive eating place and, incidentally, indulge in a little self-glorification? Is not that the conception some, perhaps many, people have of the Service Club?

One who has had two years' experience in one of these clubs, and who has frequently visited other than Kiwanis Clubs, desires to say emphatically that that conception is wrong. The above mentioned clubs are known as "service" clubs. Their members are banded together for the purpose of ministry. They want to do something for somebody else, and usually for one or a number of the less-privileged.

The origin of these clubs dates back to the great war. Amid all the gloom, the military reverses, the disheartening cablegrams, there was, strange to say, an exhilaration, an exaltation of soul in our people which cannot be remembered without a thrill. How explain that phenomenon? The whole American people entered deeply into the experience of servantship. We were all called upon to serve. We had entered upon a stupendous enterprise and everyone had to do his bit. The spontaneity and alacrity with which all classes responded to this call will never be forgotten. Everyone wanted to do something. When the Red Cross called for workers, they came in steady procession. When the Red Cross called for millions of dollars they were given. When the Y. M. C. A. called for workers, they responded by the thousands, and when it asked for millions of dollars, the dollars came. A score of new organizations leaped into the field calling for money and volunteers, and these did not call in vain. There seemed to be no limit either to the willingness to give money or to the ambition and capacity to serve. What a sublime spectacle! A hundred million people baptized into the spirit of service! It was an awakening, a rebirth of the American soul.

Now much of this idealism has since been lost. In the days of peace and increasing wealth we are so prone to become more and more a pleasure-loving people. Selfishness is one of the besetting sins of human nature. Personal ease and comfort is the summum bonum of multitudes both young and old.

Now these service clubs are unwittingly seeking to revive and perpetuate that splendid spirit of service. That is the underlying reason for the existence of these clubs. There are other reasons: As a social being man craves sociability, contact with other men. That opportunity is given the members of these clubs. The business man meets his fellow-business man not only, he meets the men of the professions, teachers, doctors, lawyers, editors, ministers. He meets men of many business interests other than his own, or he here sits down to lunch with his rival, his competitor. By that act he cultivates the spirit of brotherhood; the spirit of mutual interest and sympathy drives out the spirit of envy and jealousy.

The club fosters the spirit of breadth and vision. We need the other fellow's viewpoint, his perspective, his outlook. We need the sympathetic participation in the everyday life of our community. The fifty or sixty members of the service club furnish a cross-section of our community life. And these men catch the spirit for which the club stands, and, in turn, are bound to infuse that spirit into the men with whom they make daily contact. The club is inspirational, educative. Patriotic addresses are delivered, addresses on education, vocational guidance, art, music, science, Indian lore, geology, our navy, the army, preparedness, peace, the outlawry of war, international relationship, fuel, oil, insurance, city government, taxation, aviation, water supply, forestry, good roads, crime, penology, prison life, hospitals, health conditions in the schools, welfare work, in fact, almost every interest imaginable is considered by the membership of the club. So there you have the broadening influence, that something that helps us look beyond our own immediate little field and take an interest in the great world all about us.

Now what are some of the projects in which these clubs are interested? I can here speak of the things I know best that are done by a club of which I am privileged to be a member, the Kiwanis Club.

The underprivileged child is in the mind of every Kiwanis Club throughout the land. Our club donated $300 to help build a road to the Boy Scout Camp. About $300 was invested in a bungalow, completely furnished, at the boys' Y. M. C. A. Camp. $25 to each of the following: Salvation Army, Christmas for the Napanoch Reformatory, Y. M. C. A. and Chamber of Commerce; about one hundred dollars a month is given to supply milk for under-privileged children in our schools. An annual scholarship of one hundred dollars to a worthy student in college or other institution of higher learning is to be granted shortly. (This will be a memorial to Miss McCullough.) But the great objective now under way will be the equipping and sponsoring of a dental clinic for indigent school children.

This is the service that is being rendered by the Kingston Kiwanis Club. A service that, I believe, fully justifies its existence. These sixty men of all walks of life meet once a week at the noon hour where they partake of a very modest luncheon, led in informal singing by the effervescent Paul Zucca; music, classic and otherwise; they swap stories, insult each other right and left good naturedly. Listen to the speaker attentively, hear reports, vote moneys for all sorts of causes that are in line with Kiwanis objectives, they smoke a little, sing a lot, they draw for a prize with its attendant good humor, and, under the mellifluous voice of "Lou" Doty, its honored president, the boys rise, sing a farewell song and adjourn to "see you Thursday".

How is the money for this budget raised? Party of annual every-member dues, and partly by the exceedingly interesting entertainment given once a year, and known as "Kiwanis Kapers". It is a musical review with hippodrome, minstrel show, ballet and rhythmic dancing, acting, playing, singing by talented members of the club and scores of young people of Kingston—it is an evening's wholesome, enjoyable entertainment with a hundred cents on every dollar, and the dollar goes for objects of welfare work carried on by the Kiwanis Club. Come to "Kiwanis Kapers" next week Friday and Saturday evenings and, incidentally, help along a most worthy cause.

KIWANIS AND THE FARMER

One of the objectives for all Kiwanis Clubs for 1929 is "To promote the spirit of understanding between the farmer and city man, encouraging an appreciation of unity in aim and purpose."

The wording of the by-laws clearly defines the duties of the Agricultural Committee of Kiwanis as being those of bringing together the rural and urban residents on a more common footing, and creating a better understanding and more filial relationship. Both classes—the city man and the country man—have problems peculiar to their conditions and business, and only by mingling together, working together and exchanging ideas can each appreciate the perplexities of the other and sympathize with them. It is our aim to convince the man from the country that the city banker and merchant are his best friends, ready to aid him financially and to extend credit when asked. We want to convince him that the city man is not trying to put something over on him and is not holding him up as an object of ridicule.

And we aim to teach the city man an understanding of agriculture. We want him to know that agriculture is a science, the first and noblest calling of man and the backbone of any nation. Where agriculture has been encouraged, that nation has prospered, but where it has been neglected, there retrogression has taken place. We want the urban dwellers to know that the tillers of the soil belong to the true nobility of the land.

We feel that certain courtesies are due the city business man from the people from the country. While it is true the city cannot live without the country it is equally true that the country cannot live without the city. The habit which is quite prevalent in rural communities of buying from mail order houses is deplorable and should be discouraged. It has been said that merchants depend largely on their rural trade, and if this trade is taken hundreds of miles away from our home city, our local merchants suffer, and the money which should go to local improvements for civic, educational and religious purposes, has gone to enrich enormous corporations which have no interest in our welfare. This tendency lessons whatever good feelings the city man may have tward the man in the country.

Many ways are being followed by Kiwanis Clubs by which the mingling of these two classes is being brought about. Farmers are being invited to Kiwanis meetings. Invitations are being accepted from farm organizations to meet with them and take their Kiwanis luncheons out into the country, play together. Community recreation is being promoted; boys and girls' clubs are being sponsored and an interest is being taken in general welfare work of the country. One club never meets in the city hotel or club room for four or five months during the warm weather, but each week holds its luncheon in a different country place on the invitation of some society or a group of people in the country.

Since all Kiwanians are "builders," let us build up pleasant and understandable relations between the city and country, let us each feel that the one is dependent upon the other, that no man lives to himself alone, and that only by working and striving hand-in-hand and heart-to-heart can any great and lasting good be brought about which will make the world better for our having lived.

VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE IN KIWANIS.

At the Kiwanis International Convention in Toronto, Canada, three years ago it was decided to make Vocational Guidance a major activity and today, outside of purely professional and educational groups, Kiwanis is the only national organization majoring in this objective. Kiwanis as a body looks back on these past three years with pride at its accomplishments in this field from the practical standpoint.

Kiwanis is composed of men who are practical in their spheres of labor and are more practical than theoretical. Vocational guidance to them is a real issue, not a question of theoretical tests and assumptions. They are in a position to function positively toward a social and educational goal and, having gained some measure of personal success in their communities, their counsel warrants attention. Their experiences are real and their opinions change to meet the actual demands of the times. The vocations change so rapidly in respect to demanded requirements that the theorist is daily left farther behind and even the practical man has difficulty keeping abreast of his day.

There are many who do not need vocational guidance or counsel. They are proceeding with their education in schools and colleges with their objective more or less already defined. But there are many who, having left school early in life, find themselves struggling against odds that may mean a permanent defeat. Life being largely a matter of conflict, even the best suffer many unnecessary defeats due to lack of forethought. Some of these early defeats develop unsocial attitudes that may become permanent. Others, with minor physical disabilities or mental difficulties, believe them to be permanent hindrances. Further, many are desirous of placement where they have neither capacity, aptitude, attitude nor do they know the preparation necessary.

To discover a person's permanent interest and eliminate mental obstacles becomes the business of the Kiwanis Vocational counsellor.

The major field in vocational guidance lies in the great number of children who leave school and go to work. The fact that a child does not do well with a certain teacher, class or subject is not an indication of inferior mentality. In fact he is often superior is something else. This is abundantly illustrated by many examples of Kingston youth who were not considered as even good students in our own public schools but who have attained phenomenal success in their chosen field of work. The part time or continuation schools of this state are full of examples of youth who do not fit into this educational scheme developed on the theories and practices of the past but who are capable of development in the same measure as their more fortunate brother who can stay in school.

Kiwanis has helped to return many of these youths to school or to advance them in the line of activity for which they seem best fitted. Kiwanis is in a position to give assistance to adults also who may desire first hand knowledge of vocations and welcomes the opportunity to be of assistance to any one desiring to find his proper sphere in life.

Now—One Compact Machine Does Both Washing and Ironing

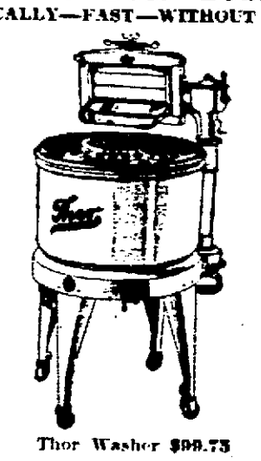
ELECTRICALLY—FAST—WITHOUT LABOR.

Here is the very latest development in home laundry equipment—a compact, beautiful electrically operated unit that does both washing and ironing.

Now—speed comes to the laundry Speed enters the home laundry—drudgery goes. The job that once required days of your time each week can now be done without work or fatigue in a few hours. You wash from 8 to 10 a. m. You iron from 2 to 4 p. m. Thus you save from two to four hours of washing time and six hours at least of ironing time. Your laundry is done better—cleaner and with gentle safety to clothes. Your ironing—finished with the lovely sheen that only the expert French hand laundresses can equal.

A new Thor washer of new and unique features

The washer is a brand new 1929 Thor achievement. A marvel of beauty, speed and efficiency. The generous, full capacity tub is finished on an entirely new and unique principle. Baked vitreous enamel—inside and out. Harder than steel. No paint on the tub to chip or scratch. Here, truly, is a lifetime feature.



Thor Washer $99.75

Thor Washer and Ironer Complete $149.25

Plus—The New Thor Rotary Iron

By a single effortless operation, this amazing machine becomes a fast, efficient electric ironer.

You simply lift the wringer off—slip the ironer on and in 4 minutes heating time you are ready to iron.

This machine has an ironing surface equal to 10 flatirons. With ten minutes' practice anyone can operate it. Note its compact size—its roll of generous length—the comfortable position of the operator. It irons everything—75% faster than you iron by hand.

Presses men's trousers—women's skirts.

And does them with an efficiency equaled only by skilled hand pressmen. Many tell us it pays for itself in a few months in this work alone.

And the price of this complete laundry unit—due to manufacturing economies and great volume sales—is less than you were formerly asked for a good washer alone.

Madam—make your decision! Days of drudgery or a few hours of pleasant relaxation.

Life.

Life is a gift to be used every day,
Not to be smothered and hidden away.
It isn't a thing to be stored in the chest,
Where you gather your keepsakes and treasure your best.
It isn't a joy to be sipped now and then
And promptly put back in a dark place again.

Individual Worth

By HENRY J. ELLIOTT, K. C.,
Montreal Canada
Past President Kiwanis International

Tremendous problems do exist in the world and as the prejudices of men are considered, one wonders if the problems can be solved. If men have failed to accomplish much in the past it has been due solely to faint hearts.

Too often we expect outstanding men to be omnipotent and we heap burdens upon them. We forget our own individual power. Every one has a definite contribution to make towards the total of the world's happiness and prosperity. Each contribution is necessary to the stability and beauty of the fabric of life. Great and wonderful results come when prosaic men and women shake off paralysis of faint hearts and believe in the reality of their power and the grandeur of their opportunities.

Happy is the man with great wealth and a generous heart. Happy is he, who by flow of eloquence in verse or prose, can rouse the popular interest. Not all, however, have the gifts of gold or of letters.

But there is the charm of personal gifts. We can throw the force of character into the vortex of life. We can offer the directive and stabilizing energies of our mentality.

The glory of peace on earth, with good will to men, the glory of commercial prosperity for the universal good, the glory of happy, harmonious vitality on the part of every soul, beckon men on, and inspire them to noble endeavor.

Kiwanis is devoted to such an Ideal.

C. WALLACE CODWISE

ALFRED D. RONDER

I. STUART WILLIAMS

The Ideals of Kiwanis.

Kiwanis ideals are the product of the collective idealism of those busy, practical men who are Kiwanians. Kiwanis ideals are an expression of the inner hopes, ambitions and desires of average business men. These hidden, unexpressed but fundamental reactions of the human soul are the very fabric of life itself. They are the product of the moral and spiritual evolution of mankind. Those reactions are the hidden signs of that struggle in which every man engages, seeking to apply his philosophy of life to his duties and privileges as a member of society.

The last twenty-five years have witnessed a wonderful development of the social consciousness. The average man of today has an infinitely greater appreciation of his fellowmen, a more adequate understanding of his obligations as a citizen and a more vivid realization of his responsibility to society than had his father before him.

Kiwanis, first brought to the business man as only a luncheon club, proved the means by which he might satisfy his hunger for fellowship and invest his life in practical service. Kiwanis acquired the aspects of a movement only when Kiwanians, without any suggestion or direction whatever, unconsciously used it as a vehicle by which they could express their real selves. The unusual spirit of fellowship and the quality of manhood represented in Kiwanis rendered the organization a fitting emissary of a great idea.

Kiwanis is leading a spiritual renaissance in which the business man is finding his own soul. He finds in Kiwanis an organization in which he can make application of principles which before seemed so theoretical and impractical as to be apart from the realities of human experience.

The Kiwanian accepts a new motive for life—service to his fellowmen. The Golden Rule takes on a new significance when translated into terms of daily experience. To the true Kiwanian his business or profession provides not only a means for earning a livelihood but also a means by which he may serve society.

There is nothing new about the Kiwanis idea—it is as old as the soul of man, but Kiwanis has put the breath of life into old ideals by translating them into terms which the average man may appreciate.

The "luck" that I believe in,
Is that which comes with work;
And no one ever finds it
Who's content to wish and shirk.
The men the world calls "lucky"
Will tell you, every one,
That success comes not with wishing
But by hard work, bravely done.

WHAT KIWANIS MEANS TO ME

What does Kiwanis mean to me? Everything. But in a very particular and personal sense it means fellowship. Fellowship with men who are interested in the things that are going on in the community in which they live and for which they have their homes and businesses and friends and affiliations. Fellowship with the men of open minds, big and broad, who have the milk of human kindness in their breasts, who seek the opportunity of being of help and assistance to others. Fellowship with the fellows who take interest in civic matters, who have regard for the welfare of their home city, who want the best sort of government, who aim to secure an awakened interest on the part of all people in the things that touch them daily. Fellowship with the men of clean lives and who have a smile on their lips and a song in their hearts and the ring of sincerity in their voices.

No man can associate with such fellows as the Kiwanis draws to itself without being bettered by the association. They radiate cheer, they inspire to better things, to loftier ideals, they encourage in the effort to make more of one's self, to make one more useful to others. To one whose life is given to the service of others, in many instances to the service of the lowly and the depressed and the unfortunate and to the effort to give them a better outlook and a sense of security and of confidence, it means everything to get the stimulus of the Kiwanis spirit. One cannot give of something he is not possessed of. And one cannot continually give without taking in. I have found that the stimulus needed to keep going is to be had by contact in meeting and in daily walks of life with the wide awake, alert, keen-minded and clean-minded, broad-gauge fellows who are found enrolled in the membership of Kiwanis.

Kiwanis necessarily means something quite different to each Kiwanian. To me it means many things. It means united effort and united cooperation in putting across a worth while civic program. It means the assembly under the Kiwanian banner of a large group of the most forward looking men in any community dedicating themselves only to the movement that appeals to their sense of helpfulness. It means the opportunity for any man with a real message that he wants to get across to representative fellows to appear before this assembly and state his case. If he has something worth consideration, he gets the consideration. If he has a personal axe to grind, he is treated courteously, but he is not taken any too seriously. It means many other things.

But the big thing that Kiwanis means to me is the fellowship of those whose acquaintance and friendship and good will and kindly smile and unostentation has aided me many times when the load seemed too heavy, when my own supply of optimism and confidence was low. There are fellows in the Kingston Kiwanis Club who have aided me immeasurably without knowing it. Their word of greeting warmly spoken, their smile of encouragement, their clasp of the hand, have meant more to me than they realize. Is it any wonder that I pray for these good fellows constantly. They are the salt of the earth and the organization in which they are banded must mean a great deal to any one who comes in contact with it.

"A BUNCH OF KEYS"

Hoe Fulkerson, distinguished editorial writer, Kiwanis Magazine, gives some homely philosophy. A gives some homely philosophy with wit and humor.

ROY FULKERSON.

I am a "spelunculist." If you are not familiar with the word, let me explain to you that a "spelunculist" is a person who year after year knows more and more about less and less.

To my "speluncular" mind the greatest problem we face today, considering the weight of the bunch of keys we carry in our hip pockets, is how we can wear a belt tight enough to keep our pants from slipping off.

Here, for example, is my bunch of keys, my badge of bondage to the things I once thought I owned, but which really own me. When I was a boy down in Tennessee, convicts expiated their crimes by working in the chain gang on the public roads. I recall seeing them going to their labors, each with a heavy iron ball on his shoulder. The clinking of the chains fastened on their ankles sounded much like our key chains, which bind us to the things we think we own.

Let's look over our keys! I have eleven keys in my bunch. These three off to one side are orphans. They have no locks to call their own. I haven't the slightest idea to what they belong. They are keys to locks which secured something once valuable, today forgotten. I worked hard to obtain those forgotten treasures; today they have so little value that I do not know what they are. But I am afraid to throw away the keys. They remain a burden to me always.

You too, no doubt, have keys on the bunch in your hand which you tote around, like the ancient mariner toted the albatross hung round his neck. You and I worked hard for the money, and for the things which we locked up with those keys. They are a part of our white man's burden; keys to forgotten locks, orphans with no lock to call their own.

As we move up in the financial scale and our possessions increase, our bunch of keys grows larger. Does our happiness increase with the number of things we lock up? Are we better off because of the number of worries we have? Look at the keys of the men around you. He who has the largest bunch of keys has the greatest number of wrinkles on his face! That is, unless he is a fat man. Fat men overwork and get wrinkles, overeat and stretch them out, get overblood pressure, die early and get an over-sized coffin.

These next two keys unlock my two automobiles. What business have you or I with two automobiles when there isn't space in any city on this continent to park even one? Automobile keys have worn out the pants of the nation. Automobiles have increased the ratio of mortality, created traffic problems, contributed to juvenile delinquency, and shown this continent how to live beyond its income! The only thing they have relieved us of is the horse fly. Even at that, mighty few motorists are rolling their own.

We ought to go back to horses. They didn't change the model every spring, and a used horse was worth more than a new one. But don't get me wrong. Owning two automobiles doesn't prove a man has money. It proves he had money. It takes a mighty little jack to raise a car, but it takes a lot of jack to keep one up.

What's this little thin key. The key to my safe deposit box. Women have more sense than men. Men prepare for old age by laying up money; women by dieting and beauty treatments. I used to think that I had some treasures laid up in that box. Now I know I haven't. In that box are trips to Europe, long sunny afternoons fishing, hours of happy reading before the open fire, long nights watching the moon playing hide-and-seek through the scudding clouds. The time I spent getting the stocks and bonds in that box made me neglect these really worth-while things. They are locked up in that box and can't be gotten out now. It's too late!

We miss the beautiful things of life accumulating money until we lose our appreciation of beauty, of art, literature and music.

This is the key to my locker at the country club. I have golf clubs, sweaters, spiked shoes and other mannish playthings locked up there. I pay little attention to them. It's silly business. I pay heavy dues to belong to that club only because most of my friends belong. I don't really use the club. None of us play enough at our country club with our wives and children. Could it have been the son of a country club member who said:

He's a peacherino pitcher and can hit a real home run.
I know my Dad could play as well, but when I ask him to,
He's always awful busy and got somethin' else to do.

Jimmy Johnson's Daddy knows a lot of dandy games—
And he plays 'em with the fellers, and he don't call Jimmy "James."
I'll bet my Dad knows lots of things that's fun fer fellers too—
But he's always awful busy and got somethin' else to do.

Some kids' Dads seem glad to have a chance to play with boys—
And even if they're readin' they don't mind a little noise.
I'll bet my Dad would beat 'em all if he just only knew
How I miss him when he's busy and got somethin' else to do."

There isn't a key on that bunch which will unlock the heart of a little boy or girl. Are you just awful busy and "got somethin' else to do?" Fellows, it isn't good business if it deprives you of the society and the love of your children.

This next key unlocks the motor boat at my country place. I have exactly the same use for a motor boat as I have for a hair net. All I ever do with it is take visitors up the river to show them how fast I can bring them back. And I have to furnish gasoline and feed them to get a chance to do it! I have never seen a man who lived near the water who didn't want a motor boat, and I have never seen a motor boat which was not for sale. The man who owns a motor boat owns grief.

This is the key to my office. You also carry a key to office, store, factory or what have you. With two or three cell mates you work harder there than you need for longer hours than you want, for money you don't need.

The average woman thinks a man's office is a place where he puts his feet on his desk and reads the morning paper, swaps smoking room stories with his friends and flirts with a red-headed stenographer between times. In reality the office is where he works to accumulate things he fondly believes are worth locking up, and the worry-wrinkles which old Father Time, like a petulant school boy with a jack knife, cuts into his face.

The average American business man has been working hard and earning money for so long that he doesn't know when he has enough, because he never stops to ask what the traveler asked. What for, pray? We have saved time and money until we have them all mixed up.

The money we have saved can, of course, be spent by our children after we occupy a box with six handles on it, but when we are gone no one can spend the time we have saved. If we don't spend it ourselves, it is a total loss.

Here is the key to my desk. What do I do at it? Dictate letters saying, "Replying to yours of the ninth we beg to say;"—"we beg to quote you as follows;"—"thanking you in advance," and all that tommyrot. And I keep carbon copies of them! It is to laugh! If we wrote "Yes" or "No" with a red pencil as a reply on the bottoms of half of the letters we get, we would save about half our time and clerk hire. It would be a shame to deprive the thousands of flappers of a place to powder their tiptilted noses and receive their phone calls. The census man came into one chap's office and asked "How many people work here?" The proprietor sighed heavily and replied, "About half of them, I think."

These next two keys are to my two houses. One is a summer house and the other a winter house. What business has any man with two houses, considering how little we use one? The living room is only the place we pass through between the bedroom and the garage. It costs a fortune to furnish them, unless you do as one woman I know. One of her guests at dinner forgot her name; looking on the handle of his fork, he addressed her as "Mrs. Statler!"

We don't live in our houses after we get them. A gasoline store blew a man and his wife out the front door down near my summer home, and their next-door neighbor said it was the first time they had gone out together in ten years!

A foreigner in America read there had been 181,000 divorces last year; he remarked that this certainly was the land of the free. When he also read that a million and a quarter of us had been married the same year, he added that it was also the home of the brave!

Fifty years ago you might have stood with bared head in the room in which you were born. It would have impressed you mightily to have reflected on the important event which took place in that room. But people aren't born in houses nowadays. They are born in hospitals where their fingerprints and footprints are taken. They have numbers hung around their necks like those stenciled on the side of box cars.

You might have looked with joy at the veranda where you proposed to the girl you afterwards made your wife. It was holy ground where you felt you should walk with shoes off. With the automobile going sixty-five miles an hour, it would be hard to locate the spot where you proposed to a girl today.

We are born in hospitals, engaged in automobiles, married in churches, spend our mornings at business, our afternoons at the golf club, our nights in moving picture shows, our illness in sanitariums, and when we come to die we go back to the same hospital in which we were born, thus completing the absolutely homeless circle. This is truly the land of the free and the grave of the home.

So we go! Our bunches of keys lie in a little row like dead hens in a poultry stall in the market. They weight down our trousers and the responsibility of the things we lock up weights down our minds.

We can't get away from our burden of keys. Even if we were all bachelors living in hall bedrooms we would have to have a key to the door and another to the suitcase in which we kept our other shirt.

As I stare over these keys, I wonder how soon the others will become as useless, as those three orphan keys. I wonder if I am any better off because of the number of things I lock up.

Household goods, saxophones, furniture, rugs, pictures, garages, automobiles, motor boats, stocks and bonds, desks and factories, are they the proper measure of happiness? Certain it is that you and I have devoted the larger part of our lives to the accumulation of the things which these keys safeguard. Is it all worth while?

We worked and planned, we spent hard working days and long sleepless nights accumulating things. If the possession of them does not constitute happiness, then we have wasted most of our lives, haven't we?

Are these keys which wear holes in our trousers, symbols of civilization or badges of servitude? Are they emblems of success or evidences that we have foolishly wished burdens on ourselves to carry which bend our backs and warp our minds? I ask you to think over that for just a moment.

Have we swapped the shadow for the substance by raising our standards of living as fast as we increase our income? Is it only the shadow of happiness we have locked behind the doors guarded by these keys? Who knows? Not I, a "spelunculist!" I only know that I would gladly trade some of the things I have for some of the joys I have missed in accumulating them.

I cannot answer for you. I can only answer for myself. I am sure now and grow more certain every year that I have sacrificed too much for what is represented by this bunch of keys. I am sure I would have been more light hearted, more carefree, more happy had I lived, laughed and loafed away more of the time I spent acquiring things.

I love America and her twin nation which are one in Kiwanis. I am most optimistic about us.

But as I look back over my shoulder I see that we are overdoing it a bit. We work too hard for pants which get shiny on the seat, pay too much for cars which go out of style next season, and acquire too many bonds which will only alter a few figures in the sheet of assets added up by our executors. I suggest that we all toss about half of these keys into the waste basket. Then maybe someone will steal some of our burdensome things and the joke will be on them.

But it is not so much the things we own which worry us as the time we have wasted accumulating them. With that time we might have put a worm on a fish hook and taught it to swim. We might have sat down by the creek and seen how a peewee builds its nest and rears its young. We might have dug up some wild flowers and brought them home and tamed them.

To my mind Kiwanis has been a big help in all this hurry and hustle, all this locking and unlocking. It has made us think oftener of the more worth while things. Through it we have not only learned but lived the Golden Rule.

Living it, helping God's little unfortunates, making our communities a little better because we have lived in them, we have also learned a bit more how to live a happy and better balanced life.

"A little work, a little play
To keep us going—and so, good day!
"A little warmth, a little light
Of love's bestowing—and so, good night!
"A little fun to match the sorrow
Of each day's growing—and so, good morrow!
"A little trust then when we die
We reap our sowing—and so, good bye!"

Bear Your Bit.

Square your shoulders to the world
It's easy to give in.
Lift your chin a little higher
You were made to win.
Grit your teeth, but smile, don't frown,
We all must bear our bit.
It's not the load that burdens us down,
It's the way we carry it.

THE OBJECTS OF KIWANIS INTERNATIONAL

To give primacy to the human and spiritual rather than to the material values of life.

To encourage the daily living of the Golden Rule in all human relationships.

To promote the adoption and the application of higher social, business, and professional standards.

To develop, by precept and example, a more intelligent, aggressive and serviceable citizenship.

To provide through Kiwanis clubs, a practical means to form enduring friendships, to render altruistic service, and to build better communities.

To cooperate in creating and maintaining that sound public opinion and high idealism which make possible the increase of righteousness, justice, patriotism, and good will.

Objectives for 1929-30

To promote enduring service for under-privileged children, emphasizing personal contact with and assistance to an individual child by every Kiwanian.

To promote intelligent, aggressive and serviceable citizenship through an understanding of the fundamentals of government and of our responsibilities as citizens to actively participate in the solution of public problems and in community service.

To promote as fundamental principles in business and professional life the ideals expressed in the Kiwanis statement of business standards.

To promote the spirit of understanding between the farmer and the city man, encouraging an appreciation of unity in aims and purposes.

To provide vocational guidance and placement for young men and women through the cooperation of every Kiwanian with those interested in his business or professional vocation.

KIWANIS.

Kiwanis is an organization of virile, progressive, right-thinking, broad-minded business and professional men. Its membership is formed by the careful and discriminating selection of the most representative men in their particular calling—men, who by virtue of their God-given talents can be relied upon to cheerfully cooperate with their fellow members in actively supporting the Kiwanis movement in its steady, unfaltering march toward the attainment of its high ideals.

Kiwanis is the practical application of the principle of the Golden Rule to our modern every day life. The participation in its activities has a pronounced effect upon each and every one of its members from the time they are first initiated. It penetrates the veneer and reaches down into the real inner nature of the man. It appeals to his noblest impulses. It inspires self confidence and reliance in one's ability to battle courageously and successfully in the cause of world-wide moral uplift. It develops the latent talents by its stirring appeal for efficiency. It harnesses the restive streams of nervous energy, directing this mighty force into useful and far-reaching channels.

Through fellowship, acquaintanceship develops into mutual understanding and esteem. Through friendship and association with a common interest, a vast clearing house of ideas, plans and projects, is formed. From this melting pot of diversified energy, brains and experience, there pours molten metal of the purest gold, which flows freely where it is needed.

As a mighty river rolls on in its majestic course toward the broad ocean, so does the Kiwanian expand in his capacity for rendering service to his fellow man. The further we proceed in our Kiwanian activities, the more devoted we become to the great cause in which we have enlisted. As we cast our eyes about us, we witness the metamorphosis of a once self sufficient, smugly satisfied professional man into an ardent and unselfish worker in child welfare campaigns, the evolution of an unsympathetic and apparently hardened man of affairs into a genuinely democratic and tireless toiler in benevolent and charitable projects, and the transformation of a solitary and non-communicative scientist into a radiant personality of contagious good cheer and fellowship. It brings home to us, what the spirit of Kiwanis means to this busy world of today. As the years glide by we can see her circle of potentiality constantly expanding, and her achievements pyramiding far aloft into the deep blue heavens.

Real Men.

It isn't the man who smiles that counts
When everything goes dead wrong;
Nor it is the man who meets defeat
Singing a gay little song;
The song and the smile are well worth while
Provided they aren't a bluff.
But here's to the man who smiles and sings
And then produces the stuff.

All Your Little Troubles Are Apt to Develop Into Bigger Ones

We have no desire to worry you unnecessarily but we do want to impress upon you the necessity of bringing your car here when first you sense any irregularity in your starter, ignition, generator, battery, etc.

The winter season puts the heaviest load on you car's electrical system and it must be in order if you are to obtain proper starting, firing and generation of current.

We are equipped to quickly detect any flaws or weakness in the car's electrical system and we suggest that you permit us to thoroughly inspect it. The proverbial ounce of prevention is worth its cost when you consider that we may be able to save you a tie-up on the road, or the annoyance of not being able to start your car when a cold morning arrives.

TO THE PUBLIC:—

We recommend the Kiwanis Kapers as a theatrical offering extraordinary, worthy of your patronage. We add our endorsement to the ideals of Kiwanis, which stimulates our interest in child welfare work, and extends this opportunity for all of us to have a part in the carrying out of the practical program which is being developed to improve the health of the under-privileged child.

THE VALUE OF KIWANIS.

Written by O. Samuel Cummings.

The Value of Kiwanis to the Individual.

The Kiwanis idea, in the abstract, is valueless. Only when that idea is translated into terms of human experience are we conscious of its dynamic power.

Many of the most powerful forces of life are only comprehended in their application. The real meaning, value and power of the Kiwanis idea is evident only as one analyzes its effect upon the lives of Kiwanians.

A New Motive.

The competitive basis upon which modern business is conducted has tended to promote the accumulation of wealth to the exclusion of any higher motive for business enterprise.

Many men have looked upon their business or profession solely as a means of earning a livelihood. While under the false exhilaration of amassing dollars it has been all too easy to fall into questionable business practices. Kiwanians have a higher motive for business enterprise than the accumulation of wealth. Kiwanians see in their respective vocations opportunities to serve their fellow men. Service to others becomes the motif of the Kiwanian's life. A high ethical standard of business conduct is a by-product of the service ideal.

The Dignity of Work.

Kiwanis dignifies personal effort. Any influence which serves to emphasize the worth of every type of legitimate business enterprise is of inestimable value. Under the inspiring influence of a higher motive every task is dignified no matter how seemingly unimportant. The inevitable result is enchanced success.

At a time when personal effort has such a vital relation to national and international welfare the significance of this aspect of the effectiveness of the Kiwanis idea is most apparent.

The Romance of Business.

The daily repetition of routine business activities often so paralyzes aggressiveness, initiative and original thought that business loses its romance. Only some new motive—some new and inspiring objective will serve to rekindle the flame that once threw a rosy glow over life. Kiwanis furnishes a moral and spiritual dynamic which compels an awakened heart-interest in the most commonplace business activity as that activity is recognized as a means of serving society. Through the transforming influence of the Kiwanis idea, business becomes once more a romance and success is to be wooed and won as a means of enhancing one's service to his fellow men.

Kiwanis Friendships.

Kiwanis fosters the development and maintenance of friendships. The exceptional spirit of good fellowship which characterizes every Kiwanis Club is fertile soil in which to cultivate cordial acquaintanceship—that necessary first step toward friendship.

A man it measured by the friends he makes and keeps. Kiwanis friendships are never broken.

The atmosphere of a Kiwanis Club serves to dissipate that stiff-necked formality which so often pervades the relations of business men. The Kiwanis spirit of friendly cordiality breaks down distrust and understanding and in its place establishes confidence.

If ever a man can be his best and do his best it is among his friends. Kiwanis is a peculiarly valuable asset to the man who has lived within his shell so long that even he himself has never realized he can be a "real fellow." The close association with aggressive personalities grips a man and many times makes him over.

Exchange of Ideas.

Kiwanians are leaders in their respective vocations. Each Kiwanian has accumulated and developed a store of valuable ideas during his successful career.

While each business has inevitably certain characteristics unlike any other business, there are certain fundamental conditions that exist in all businesses. This similarity is particularly noticeable in the realm of human relations as applied to every business or profession.

Kiwanians are students of human nature. A Kiwanis Club is a great experimental station in the field of human experience. Each Kiwanian has placed at his disposal the accumulated experience of every other member of his club. The value of the exchange of ideas made possible by Kiwanis membership is incalculable.

Breadth of Vision.

The average man's personal relationships in life are ordinarily developed within his own business or allied lines of business, within his church or lodge and within his own community. If there is any great diversity to the business interests of his friends it is purely by accident and the business side of his life, except in the first example given, is in no way emphasized.

Kiwanis membership, however, brings a man in contact with representative men in the various business and professional pursuits of his city. Kiwanis represents a cross-section of the business life of the city—the whole fabric of business life is thereby woven under one's very eyes.

We ordinarily look out upon life through just two eyes—the two that God has given us. Kiwanis memberships places at our disposal a hundred sets of eyes through which to get a vision of life which was never possible before. Prejudice, bigotry and intolerance fade into oblivion when we look at life from his point of view as well as our own.

Developing Leaders.

Through its emphasis upon the all-round development of its members, Kiwanis is many times the agency through which Kiwanians develop the use of talents before undiscovered.

Responsibility and leadership in the affairs of the club develop new capacities for responsibility and leadership in the business world.

The successful leader of any business enterprise today is not only the master of the technical details of his business but also the recognized leader of the personnel. Kiwanis develops qualities of personal leadership.

A Business Asset.

Business reciprocation is, neither a stated nor implied obligation between Kiwanians. Kiwanians would not stoop to the selfishness of such a proposition. The man who sees in Kiwanis a ready-made business clientele has absolutely no right to Kiwanis membership because he has missed the fundamental spirit of the organization.

Kiwanis membership however, is a distinct business asset, since it provides an opportunity for each Kiwanian to impress upon his fellow Kiwanians his agreeable personality and his ability to render 100 per cent service in his particular line.

All business is today based upon confidence. Kiwanis develops friendships which are the stuff from which confidence is made.

Business giving or business getting is not considered by the true Kiwanian in connection with his relation to his club. If any exchange of business takes place it should be solely on the soundest principles of good business and merely an unanticipated by-product of Kiwanis membership.

Civic Service.

Every Kiwanis Club takes an active part in civic activities of a constructive nature. The Kiwanis Club helps to mobilize the strong business men of each community behind a local program of civic development.

Business men are today fully awakened to their civic responsibility but often have not found an organization in which they may invest their time and energy with assurance that real results will be secured.

A Kiwanis Club never fails to accomplish the task it sets out to perform. Kiwanis membership, therefore, provides the avenue through which a man may invest that part of his time and efforts which he desires to contribute to the development of his city, with every assurance that maximum results will be secured.

SO FAR AHEAD has General gone with the new Dual-Balloon that you can now go through the whole span of car life with never a worry about tires, and all the way in serene comfort and secure safety. In mileage capacity the Dual-Balloon surpasses the famous records that brought fame to former General tires. This surplus of mileage—beyond the average term of car ownership—goes hand in hand with regular ballon low-pressure. Only the Dual-Balloon principle makes this accomplishment possible.
